

Governor Erases Death Sentences Of 15 in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, saying he hoped other governors would follow his example, has commuted to life the sentences of all 15 men on death row in Arkansas. The prisoners were jubilant, but some state officials were sharply critical of the action.

Rockefeller, 58, said his only reason for granting the commutations Tuesday was that he was unalterably opposed to the death penalty and hoped to "hasten the elimination of barbarism as a tool of American justice."

Nine of the men, four whites and five blacks, were sentenced for murder. Six others, all blacks, were sentenced for rape of white women.

Leaving Office

The action came two weeks before Rockefeller is to leave office.

Gov.-elect Dale Bumpers, who will succeed Rockefeller Jan. 12, commented:

"I know he acted in accordance with his personal philosophy. I'm sure he had sufficient information to justify in his own mind the action that he took."

Albert Harris, 28, a negro under death sentence in the rape of a white woman eight years ago, said after hearing of his reprieve, "Long as a man got life, he's got a chance."

Said John Henry Sheppard, 26, a black: "Thank Governor

Rockefeller and God." A Bible lay beside Sheppard on his prison bunk.

Larry McGuire, superintendent of the Tucker Prison Farm that houses death row, said the 15 men were "very elated, very happy" at the news.

Lawmaker Angry

But state Rep. G. W. "Buddy" Turner of Pine Bluff said he had heard Rockefeller's message to the convicts and "now I'd like to have his message to the victims."

State Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott said he was shocked declaring, "I've always felt that the people who heard the evidence and the presiding judges should know more about how to handle a sentence than a chief executive."

Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver said the wholesale commutation order was unprecedented in Arkansas.

The Rev. J. F. Cooley, a civil rights activist and member of the faculty of all-Negro Shorter College, called Rockefeller's decision a "great act of Christian faith."

A prosecuting attorney, Beryl Anthony Jr. of El Dorado, told newsmen however "It sounds to me like the governor has taken a tremendous burden upon himself and has short-circuited and relieved various courts that have got jurisdiction of the various cases under consideration at the present time."

Mighty Mite Among Bridges

CORONA DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — How strong a toy bridge can you build out of about a half-ounce of balsa wood?

Twenty Corona del Mar High School students entered the physics department's annual bridge building contest in quest of the answer.

Greg Rose won. His bridge stayed intact under 300 pounds.

Congress Okays Limits On U.S. Asian Activity

Measure Keeps Combat Troops From Being Sent Into Thailand, Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has completed passage of a three-part package limiting, safe and orderly withdrawal or disengagement of U.S. forces from Southeast Asia or to aid in the release of Americans held as prisoners of war.

The final step came Tuesday night when the Senate passed 70 to 2 the $66.6 billion defense appropriation bill. The measure bars U.S. combat ground forces from Laos and Thailand, but permits continued American support of South Vietnamese efforts in Cambodia and Laos.

The House passed the bill earlier in the day 234 to 18, and President Nixon is expected to sign it later in the week.

Together with two other bills — the $19.9 billion military procurement authorization bill and a supplementary foreign aid measure containing $255 million for Cambodia — the action eliminated one major area that had threatened to delay adjournment of the 91st Congress.

Rock Slide Kills Diners at Israeli Farm

BEERSHEBA, Israel (AP) — A giant rock slide crashed through a mess hall roof at a frontier farm settlement today, burying dozens of diners, most of them soldiers. First reports said at least 14 were killed and 10 injured.

Rescue workers were trying to free a number of the victims still trapped in the debris more than three hours later.

The rock slide occurred while the inhabitants of Neot Hakikar — on the Israeli-Jordanian border south of the Dead Sea — were at their noon meal.

The settlement is situated beneath a high cliff to give it protection from the elements.

The exact cause of the landslide was not immediately determined.

The dead and wounded were evacuated by helicopter.

Nine of the victims were brought to a hospital in Beersheba. None was seriously injured, attendants said.

Police and ambulance units from three southern towns rushed to the disaster scene.

Neot Hakikar has been a frequent target of Arab guerrilla attacks from Jordan. There was no indication the incident was caused by sabotage, however.

The victims were not permitted to talk to newsmen. Telephone service to the area was disrupted.

Basque Death Sentences Commuted

MADRID (AP) — Gen Francisco Franco commuted the death sentences of six Basque extremists tonight.

The 78-year-old chief of state reduced the sentences to 30 years in prison.

The announcement that he was saving the youthful Basques from the garrote or the firing squad came after Franco met with his Cabinet for the second straight day.

Franco acted after receiving pleas for clemency from governments and heads of states in various parts of the world.

And there also was the threat of renewed violence in Spain should the sentences be carried out. They were imposed for murder and banditry.

Nixon Undergoes His Yearly Physical Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon went to the Naval Hospital in suburban Bethesda, Md., today for what was described as a routine annual physical checkup.

Accompanied by his personal physician, Air Force Brig. Gen. Walter R. Tkach, Nixon flew in a helicopter to the hospital for two hours of tests.

Nixon last had a complete physical examination at the same hospital on Nov. 10, 1969.

Space Matter Contains Needed Elements

Dirty Ice Tested as Possible Originator of Life

CHICAGO (AP) — Pioneering experiments suggest that living creatures on earth — and conceivably elsewhere in the universe — in effect evolved from chips of the "dirty ice" of interstellar space, a New York scientist reported today.

"Dirty ice" is the pet name given by space scientists to super-cold grains of solid matter suspended in the thin gases that pervade the space between the stars.

Known to play an important role in the condensation processes leading to the formation of the stars and planets, the pip-squeak dirty ice particles are believed by some scientists to consist mainly of frozen water, methane and ammonia. Their "dirtiness" comes from a small admixture of heavier elements such as iron.

Life Chemicals

Dr. J. Mayo Greenberg of the State University of New York at Albany said there "at least suggestive new evidence that the heavenly grains may be potential yielders of some of the basic chemicals of life itself.

In a report prepared for the closing session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science's 137th meeting and amplified at a news conference he gave this account:

In the world's first experiment of its kind, Greenberg and several space-science colleagues reproduced a laboratory version of dirty ice by deep-freezing a mixture of water,

No Progress at All Seen in Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — The United States said today that a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war "seems no nearer today than it did a year ago, or even two years ago" when the Paris peace talks began.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce appealed to the Communist side to "work together now to prevent 1971 from being added to the already far too long and dreary chronicle of this war."

"Let us instead make it a year which will be recorded prominently in the annals of peace," he continued.

Bruce spoke at the 97th session of the peace talks, which began in their present form Jan. 18, 1969.

Bruce made a detailed presentation of allied efforts to get substantive progress in Paris and put the blame on the Communist side for lack of progress.

Opportunity Lost

"The opportunity to make the year when peace finally returned to all of Indochina has been lost," he said.

Communist delegates listed again their conditions for an end to the war and put the blame on the United States for hampering the return of peace.

Before entering the conference hall, however, Xuan Thuy, the North Vietnamese chief delegate, expressed the hope the new year would bring increasing "solidarity between the French and Vietnamese people and the American and Vietnamese people."

Bruce recalled U.S. proposals for standstill cease-fire, withdrawal of American and North Vietnamese forces, and for a political solution reflecting "the existing relationship of political forces in South Vietnam."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates restated their demands for U.S. troop withdrawal before June 30, 1971, a cease-fire, overthrow of the leaders of the present Saigon regime, a coalition government and elections.

Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, head of the South Vietnamese delegation, said: "It is as clear as daylight that what you are seeking is simply to bring us to make unilateral concessions, not in the interest of peace, but solely to give satisfaction to your demands."

Israel 'Ready to Listen:' Mrs. Meir

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli Premier Golda Meir says her government will not make peace with the Arabs unless "it gets 'defensible' frontiers and retains control of united Jerusalem."

But she also said Tuesday that Israel, bolstered by new support from the United States, is re-entering the peace negotiations at the United Nations "ready not only to present our position but also to listen."

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, speaking in Cairo, lauded Israel's decision to return to the peace talks a "maneuver" and ordered his country to get ready for deep Israeli raids after the Middle East cease-fire expires Feb. 5.

He gave virtual assurance that Egypt will not agree to extension of the cease-fire without a timetable for Israeli withdrawal from territories occupied in the June 1967 war.

Sadat spoke at a closed meeting of the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party. Cairo newspapers reported the speech.

Mrs. Meir spoke before the Knesset, Israel's parliament, after it voted 77-27 and with 9 abstentions to rejoin the negotiations with U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring as the go-between. Israel withdrew from the talks Sept. 6, before they really got started, charging that Egypt had violated the cease-fire by moving anti-aircraft missiles closer to the Suez Canal.

Against Fighting

Mrs. Meir urged Egypt to agree to an extension of the cease-fire and warned Cairo against any renewal of the fighting. She added that recent contacts with Washington have shown increased U.S. support for Israel's refusal to withdraw from the occupied territories until binding peace agreements are reached.

"There can be no doubt regarding our position that no guarantees can replace secure, defensible boundaries and the maintenance of our capacity to defend ourselves," she said.

She reiterated Israel's rejection of U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers' call for Israel to agree to only minor changes in the borders it had before the 1967 war. Israel's decision to return to the peace negotiations does not include any commitment to agree to the Rogers proposals or any other plan, she said.

Reached Stage

Sadat said Egypt's armed forces are "now stronger than ever before," and "we have reached the stage where we can say, 'No, we shall not extend the cease-fire.'"

He told the governors of Egypt's provinces to "mobilize all potentials" and "get ready for battle" with the expectation that Israel will resort to large-scale raids deep into Egypt.

"Every one of us should be on the battlefield within two weeks because the enemy — knowing he cannot repeat June 5, 1967, against our army — will concentrate on the internal front," Sadat said.

Sadat said Egypt accepted the first extension of the cease-fire "because we felt the world wanted us to . . . but this time it is clear America and Israel are maneuvering."

Some Logic

"America will find some logic in demanding another extension," he said, "on the basis of Israel's return to the Jarring talks, but we know this will be a dilatory tactic and they do not intend to implement the November U.N. resolution."

He was referring to the U.N. Security Council resolution of November 1967, which called for a peace settlement including Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories and Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist as a state within secure boundaries.

Israel Foreign Minister Abba Eban told a news conference today that "such talk of stopping the cease-fire is irresponsible — these speeches are not elements which generate negotiating atmosphere."

If the Egyptian threats are intended to intimidate Israel, he said, "then our flesh must visibly refuse to creep."

Waterway Patrols Now Job of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The United States closed out its last coastal and inland waterway operations in Vietnam today by turning over 125 more patrol boats to South Vietnam.

Rear Adm. Tran Van Chon, commander of South Vietnam's navy, accepted the last of some 650 boats from Vice Adm. Jerome H. King Jr. at a ceremony at the navy headquarters docks in Saigon.

The transfer raised South Vietnam's naval strength to 1,500 vessels, the largest of them being several 316-foot LSTs.

Combat Role

The ceremony marked the end of an important phase of the U.S. combat role in Vietnam, in-shore naval patrols along the coast and on the rivers and canals which have been in operation since 1965. The so-called "brown water navy" was the U.S. Navy's first river combat force since the Civil War.

A few U.S. naval advisers will remain on duty with the Vietnamese Navy. Two U.S. Navy combat aircraft units — a helicopter gunship squadron and a squadron of OV10 light attack planes — will continue to operate in support of South Vietnamese forces in the Mekong Delta and ships of the U.S. 7th Fleet and the U.S. Coast Guard are continuing to operate in the offshore waters.

The 650 boats the United States has turned over to the Vietnamese since November 1968 include 293 river patrol boats, 224 river assault craft, 107 "Swift" boats for river patrols and 26 Coast Guard craft.

At peak strength in 1968, the Navy had 36,000 men in South Vietnam, but this has been reduced to 17,000, not including the 19,000 Navy and Coast Guard personnel assigned to offshore units.

current

BY MARY WITT
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Now that it has proved its staying power, the antique look in eyeglasses has graduated from fad to fashion.

A combination of something old and something new, the yesteryear styling was first discovered by the young seeking just the right accessory to add spice to the flavor of clothes from the attic. They did the footwork by scouring antique shops; then it was up to eyeglass designers to adapt and adopt the growing preoccupation with the past for those who need glasses.

Although invented in the thirteenth century, glasses, optically speaking, were quite limited and uncomfortable until well into the eighteenth century. Fitting was haphazard at best and the majority of glasses were purchased from peddlers on an if-they-fit-and-you-can-see-through-them-buy-them basis.

It even took 350 years for eyeglass makers to figure out how to make glasses to stay on. Not until 1727, were temple spectacles perfected. Their ancestors had no side pieces and were held in front by a number of inventive but awkward strategems ranging from weighted strings looped over the ears to a scissors-like affair, which often placed the wearer's nose in jeopardy.

Through the years, such matters as the placement of an eyeglass ribbon have been known to occupy great minds. Should it hang straight, be flipped casually over the ear or draped demurely over the shoulder?

A favorite play among women was to hide eyeglasses in their fans or charms or, in the case of the turn of the century, to wear them at the end of a chain attached to a gold hairpin adorning their upswept coiffures.

But vanity aside, the raison d'etre of glasses was and is the improvement of vision. Yet, it was not until the nineteenth century that such basic problems as astigmatism were understood. In 1828, glasses to correct that condition were made by McAllister, a Philadelphia optical firm.

Today the eyeglass wearer can enjoy the best of both worlds. The look may be reminiscent of yesterday, but everything else about glasses is up to the minute. Extraordinarily lightweight and precision crafted, they serve up delicious remembrances of things past done up in the know-how of the present.

Shades of Charles Dana Gibson, brought up to date by the fashion conscious miss above. She has carried out the look in clothes and hairdo, but she might as easily have complimented it with futuristic finery. Interspersed above are three examples of eyeglasses dating from the eighteenth through the nineteenth centuries.

He can swagger into the seventies with a spectacular look that might have stepped out of a nineteenth century stagecoach. The look is borrowed, but everything else about the oval-gold-filled frames is up to the minute.

Here's What They Said At International Deb Ball

By DEE WEDEMEYER

NEW YORK (AP) — Fifty nine young women were presented at the 16th annual International Debutante Ball Tuesday night, but the talk of the pink and white ballroom seemed more of a prominent post deb, a deb who never really became a deb, and a grandmother.

The prominent post deb was Tricia Nixon, who was presented at this same ball in 1964, and now is rumored engaged to her escort for the debut, Edward "Eddie" Cox.

Eddie's mother, Mrs. Howard Ellis Cox, chairman of the ball, was besieged by reporters wanting to know if the rumor was true.

"You know you're not supposed to ask that tonight," said the attractive Mrs. Cox, who suggested instead a chat about the Soldiers', Sailors' and Airmen's Club, which benefitted from the ball.

Reporters also asked Tricia's sister, Julie Eisenhower, about the rumored engagement.

"There's so much speculation. I think everyone just likes to go to weddings," suggested Julie, who wore a rose colored beaded dress.

Julie and her husband, David Eisenhower, were present to see the debut of David's sister, Susan, 19. However, Susan, who announced her engagement last October to English barrister Alexander Bradshaw, decided a formal bow was inappropriate.

Instead she headed the receiving line, led the presentation as the U.S. representative and curtsied only slightly as she stepped out to the tune of "America the Beautiful."

Susan's grandmother, Mamie Eisenhower, created a stir when she went through a receiving line, looking slim in a black lace coat over a yellow sheath. She kissed Susan and then continued through the long line shaking hands with each of the girls representing 17 countries and 27 states.

The Eisenhowers watched the ballroom presentations from a flag-draped balcony box where they were joined by the Duchess D'azes, Col. Sarge Obolensky, the Howard Ellis Coxes and Perle Mesta, the veteran party giver. Mrs. Mesta's grand niece, Betty Lou Ellis, represented Washington, D.C., at the ball.

Each of the girls, wearing long white dresses and carrying bouquets of pink carnations, walked out while a song representative of her state was played. Each had an escort in white tie and tails and each was accompanied by a uniformed color guard from a military academy.

Some of the escorts who had long hair and sideburns got as much attention as the debutantes.

"Four years ago they wouldn't have been admitted," lamented one man. "Now this!"

Keep Your Kitchen Helpers Humming

If you have ever counted the number of small appliances in your kitchen, chances are at least a half dozen mini-machines are helping to keep the household running smoothly. Toasters, blenders, mixers, electric frypans, coffee makers and can openers are just a few of the possible kitchen-keepers.

Care, the easy kind, is necessary to maintain appliances in proper working order. Appliances should be disconnected before cleaning. Allow those that heat to cool before washing. A good life-extender is to clean after each use. Unless instructions indicate it is safe, don't immerse electrical - connecting portion of an appliance in suds.

Appliances that are taken apart for cleaning, such as blenders, should be washed, rinsed, and dried thoroughly before reassembling. When not in use, items like blender caps should be stored sideways to allow air to circulate.

Couples Repeat Wedding Promises

Stippich-Jensen

OSHKOSH — Allenville Community Baptist Church was the setting of the 7:30 p.m. Sunday wedding ceremony of Miss Karen Jean Stippich and Jack John Jensen.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph F.

Stippich, Waterloo. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jensen, 3116 Jensen Road.

Attending the bride as matron of honor was Mrs. Ramona Lyness. Marvin Lyness served as best man.

Blohm-Farley

WAUPACA — Mrs. Carol Blohm has announced the marriage of her daughter, Sa. Connie Rae, U.S.N., to CS2 James L. Farley, U.S.N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. Farley, Stevens Point.

Married in a recent ceremony at Waukegan, Ill., they will reside at Park City, Ill.

Merrymakers Plan Top Hatter's Ball

The Merrymaker's Dance Club will have a "Top Hatter's Ball" from 9 p.m. to 2 a.m. New Years Eve at Neenah-Menasha Labor Temple.

Chairmen for the party are Russ Knaack, Chet Nelson, Hubert Wohlers and Gordon Blank, all of Neenah.

Hortonville Girl Entered In DAR Contest

HORTONVILLE — Miss Cynthia K. Leeman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Leeman, route 1, has been selected by the senior class and faculty to represent Hortonville High School in the DAR Good Citizens' Contest.

The contest is sponsored by the Wisconsin Society of the Daughters of the American Revolution and is open to girls in their senior year of high school. The winner is selected on the basis of dependability, service, leadership and patriotism.

Miss Leeman's name and questionnaire will be sent to the state DAR chairman and her committee. The state winner will be chosen on a merit basis.

Christmas Shines in Missouri

TIFF CITY, Mo. (AP) — To hundreds of impoverished Indians for miles around, the spirit of Christmas shines from this tiny village in southwest Missouri.

Under a program organized by Romere Darling Martin, a vivacious Potawatomi Indian woman of 60, toys and food packages are distributed every year on Dec. 23.

If the Indian families can't make it into town, the gifts are taken to their homes—no matter how isolated they may be in the surrounding wooded hills.

An outsider passing through the village of "61 people, 72 dogs" Wednesday probably would not have recognized what one resident said were "the true signs of Christmas":

—Two dozen vehicles, many of them battered pickup trucks, parked helter-skelter around Romere's liquor store.

—A crowd gathered in a schoolhouse.

Box 14-A

—And Romere, her baseball cap askew "Our Gang" style and her dark braids swinging, covering all of the bases of activity. She had organized the program known as post office "Box 14-A, Tiff City" 15 years ago as a rallying point to help the Indians.

A sign on the door of her liquor store read "Box 14-A, God Bless."

In an abandoned schoolhouse with her friends—the needy Indians, firemen from Joplin, staffers of the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Romere succeeded in encouraging two bashful Cherokee girls to sing carols in their native tongue.

Then all the Cherokees in the schoolhouse joined the singing.

As he has been doing for more than 10 years, Larry Pickard, a Quaker and close friend of Romere, delivered a blessing:

"We thank Thee for the spirit of brotherhood on this Christmas season. . . We give Thee thanks for those who have shared, both near and far . . ."

Romere, with an emotional delivery, added:

"...I am most thankful. Again, I thank Thee for making this a joyous Christmas for me and for my people."

Volunteers then began loading some of the 75 gifts—food packages weighing more than 100 pounds each, including chickens, milk, bread and canned goods.

One of the vehicles assigned to deliver the food packages and toys swung into a muddy driveway in the hill country.

The gifts were carried into the house, a two-room structure with worn linoleum flooring exposing old wood, rotted in some sections, and walls on which were tacked several squares of cardboard to keep out the elements.

An Indian family, 10 children and the parents, drifted toward the wood-burning stove in the center of the main room while the gift toys were assembled around a humble Christmas tree.

Cash Donations

Returning to Tiff City, Romere estimated that cash donations to "Box 14-A" amounted to nearly $2,000 just about enough to defray her expenses on the food. More food was still coming, she said, and she would pack some more gifts.

Area wholesalers had responded with contributions of about 100 gallons of milk and 200 loaves of bread.

Now, Romere said, she must begin concentrating on the clothes program of "14-A," which is a year-round effort.

Mrs. Lorraine Bales of Topeka, Romere's niece, brought the topic of conversation back to the Indian family of 10 children:

"If I complain once for the rest of week, I hope somebody's around to kick me in the tail."

All She Wanted for Christmas Was A Ride on an Elephant

BIRMINGHAM, Mich. (AP) — "My husband asked me what I wanted for Christmas, and I told him I wanted a ride on an elephant," recalled Mrs. Carl Pfeiffer.

"I told him he didn't have to buy me a whole elephant, just a ride on one. I never thought he'd do it."

But the day after Christmas, a big truck from King Animal Land pulled up to the Pfeiffer house and out came Queenie, a 20-year-old female pachyderm.

"My wife loves animals," explained Pfeiffer, an executive vice president of an auto supply firm. "She has been bugging me for a long time about a ride on an elephant. . . It was supposed to come Friday afternoon so she could ride it on Christmas, but the truck broke down."

The weather was cold and snowy, and Queenie could only stand the 18-degree temperature for about 10 minutes at a time. So the elephant spent most of the afternoon in the Pfeiffer garage.

Neighborhood children watched in amazement.

Mrs. Pfeiffer, and the Pfeiffers' four children—Martha, 16, Susan, 15, Lucy, 12 and Mac, 10—took turns riding the elephant. Pfeiffer also tried it. Queenie spends most of her time doing promotion stunts and seemed to enjoy herself. She was rewarded with a bushel of apples, eight loaves of bread and some peanuts.

"The ride was delightful," said Mrs. Pfeiffer. "It's better than I even imagined. It's something I've always wanted to do."

Pfeiffer was reluctant to say how much it cost to rent the elephant for the afternoon, but a spokesman for the animal firm said $300 is the standard price.

"I'm so excited I just can't think," said Mrs. Pfeiffer. "It's the nicest Christmas I ever had."

An Elephant ride was what Mrs. Carl Pfeiffer, Birmingham, Mich., wanted for Christmas. She got her wish and the elephant, too, when her husband rented 20-year-old Queenie. Here the elephant cavorts near the Pfeiffer home during a snow flurry. (AP Wirephoto)

This Any Way To Run a High School?

ROCKFORD, Ill. (AP) — Janet Lynn, the U.S. women's figure skating champion and one of America's premier hopefuls for a gold medal in the 1972 Olympics, may not be graduated from high school because she is lacking credits in physical education.

Miss Lynn's father, Ralph Nowicki, said Monday, "It's really kind of a comedy. It's become a family joke."

The teen-age skating champion uses only her first and middle names in competition, dropping her family name.

Nowicki, a Rockford pharmacist, said the family was not aware of Janet's predicament until recently.

Janet, an honor student, also thinks "it's very humorous, according to Nowicki."

Officials at Guilford High School presented the problem to the Rockford Board of Education which has the power to grant an exception.

"We decided that if she doesn't graduate it's perfectly all right. The only thing she will miss is a chance to graduate with all the kids she's gone to school with over the years," said Nowicki, adding that Janet plans to delay entering college until after the 1972 Winter Olympics in Sapporo, Japan.

"If she has to take an hour a day of classes to make up the credit it won't interfere that much with her all-out effort to train for the Olympics," he said.

Miss Lynn, who placed fifth as a 16-year-old in the 1968 Winter Olympics, was a member of the U.S. team in the 1969 World Championship competition and captured the American women's title earlier this year.

Court Sets Trial by Jury In Theft Case

Appleton Man Faces Charges Resulting From Cracking Ring

Another suspect has been charged in connection with a large theft ring cracked in mid-September by area police.

David Van Eyck, 20 of 1627 W. Summer St., pleaded innocent to a theft charge Tuesday before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, who set a jury trial for Jan. 27, after a preliminary hearing was waived.

Authorities allege that Van Eyck stole a garden tractor worth $1,700 from the front lawn of David Nelson, route 2, Shiocton, last May 27 and that he, and other members of the ring sold the machine several days later to a Waukesha County man and divided the proceeds of the sale.

Van Eyck was taken into custody at the Shawano County jail Thursday, where he had been confined for an alleged offense in that county. He is free on bond.

Another Appleton man, presently held in the Shawano County jail, is also, believed to have had a part in the ring.

Took Tractor

The man allegedly took a lawn tractor from Prince of Peace Lutheran Church, 2330 E. Calumet St., on July 2. Authorities claim the tractor, valued at $738, was turned over to the Waukesha County man in the same type of operation.

Jerome Baier, 35, formerly of 1350 Manitowoc Road, Menasha, was sentenced to seven years at Waupun State prison Nov. 19.

Blue Cross Bid Endorsed by Outagamie Executive Unit

Finance Recommendation Rejected

The Outagamie County Board's Executive Committee early this afternoon endorsed a group health insurance contract with Blue Cross, signed last week by Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt and County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan.

By defeating a move to accept a lower bid from a different insurance company, the Outagamie County Board's Executive Committee early this afternoon endorsed a contract with Blue Cross, signed last week by Board Chairman Russell DeLaHunt and County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan.

However, there were strong indications the entire matter of group health insurance for some 360 county employees might still find its way to the board floor Jan. 12.

Supv. Joseph DeBruin of rural Kaukauna said he wanted to talk to other interested parties further before making a final decision on drafting a resolution on the insurance action.

The executive committee was called into special session today to consider a recommendation by the finance committee on Monday that the contract with Blue Cross be voided on grounds that the personnel committee, acting on its own, had no authority to permit DeLaHunt and Hoolihan to enter into the $135,000 insurance contract.

The finance committee contended it should have a voice in the contract, but that final action should go through the executive committee and the county board.

After a full morning of discussion, Appleton Supv. John R. Schreiter moved that the Executive Committee ask the board to invalidate the contract signed last week.

His motion lost by a 6-4 vote. Voting against his measure were Supvs. Jerome Hiler and Kurt Koletzke of Appleton, Ervin Conradt of Shiocton, Edward Spierings of Little Chute and Sylvester Lenz of Kimberly. Voting with Schreiter were supervisors Fred Renfeldt and Eugene Kloes of Appleton and DeBruin.

Schreiter, after the vote was taken, still maintained that the contract was illegal in that it violated county board rules.

By a second resolution, passed unanimously on voice vote, the

Maximum Penalty

6-Month Term Ordered For Incident With Gun

Calling the act of pointing of a loaded weapon at someone "one of the most dangerous and hazardous things a person can do," Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer Tuesday sentenced an Appleton man to a maximum jail term of six months.

The maximum penalty for a misdemeanor statute under the law regarding the reckless use of a firearm, less a fine, was imposed on Jerry Lee Guyette, 29 of 224 W. Pacific St. He pleaded guilty in County Court Branch 2.

Overlooking the comments of a defense attorney who said Guyette may have been drinking prior to the incident where he held two police officers at bay for 25 minutes early Monday, Schaefer held that "drinking is no excuse."

"If that trigger was pulled, the person would be just as dead if you were drunk or not," The defense attorney, who told the court Guyette was later remorseful for the act which he called "very bad and potentially very dangerous." Guyette recognizes this now, he said.

Guyette held the two policemen at gunpoint with a loaded, cocked shotgun, outside the home at 3129 N. Lawe St. where his estranged wife, Deanna, 27, lives. He had followed her there, at 3129 N. Lawe St. while she was escorted home by squad car from The Ultimate, 1101 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Police had gone to the tavern about 12:30 a.m., on a report that Guyette would not allow Deanna to leave. Deanna objected to his plans to take her home because she held legal court documents banning him from the premises.

No one was hurt in the incident, which ended at Wisconsin Avenue and Oneida Street where a police roadblock stopped Guyette who had ordered his estranged wife into his auto and then driver off.

Group to Seek Information on Public Housing

Conference Will Center on Homes for Low-Income Families

A public meeting to explore the community's responsibilities for providing public housing for low income families is slated for 7:30 p.m. today at the Outagamie Bank meeting room.

Richard Wibracht, president of the Center for Civic Initiative, Milwaukee, will speak. The center has been responsible for providing 1,000 low income families with the opportunity to purchase homes under the generally-subsidized low income housing purchase program.

In the meeting notice, Ronald W. Scheid, temporary chairman of the citizens committee for low income public housing, invited "all interested and concerned organizations and individuals." The committee will conduct the meeting.

The purpose will be to explore low income housing "and the alternatives available, in addition to or in place of the community-sponsored public housing."

Scheid said he was trying to bring out "authoritative persons" to the meeting.

Mayor George Buckley has said that he favors applying for more federal financing for additional elderly projects, instead of low income family projects. The city is completing a 150-unit housing for the elderly facility next spring.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, chief grantor of such funding, has said that it wants communities to build a proportionate number of units for each group — the low income family and the elderly. This doesn't necessarily mean a 50-50 arrangement.

Scheid noted that the citizens committee has no funds and that the Appleton Federation of Labor Unions was paying the expenses of the meeting.

Oshkosh, Appleton Funds Granted For Mass Transit Study

A federal grant of $15,066 has been approved for a Fox Cities-Oshkosh mass-transit study which hopes to produce a solution to the bus crises facing both areas.

The grant was made by the U.S. Department of Transportation as the two-thirds federal share of the cost of the 10-month study, according to U.S. Rep. John Byrnes, R-Green Bay.

The other third has been approved for the study by the state, eliminating the need for any local funding of the study.

Jerome Starling, director of regional planning for the Fox Valley Council of Governments (COG), said the study will get under way soon. A transit management consultant has been selected to do most of the work but the COG staff also will contribute data and assistance, he said.

Appropriate Time

"The approval comes at a very appropriate time because both of the bus companies in Appleton and Oshkosh are experiencing financial troubles," said Starling, formerly COG transportation planner. Both cities are facing the possibility of subsidizing private companies, becoming involved in the busing business themselves or allowing the companies to sink or swim on their own."

Starling said he hoped the study would produce concrete recommendations on how to maintain and improve on the present bus operations. However, he noted that the study might indicate that this area doesn't need bus service.

The study will involve a thorough review of existing operations and equipment of the two bus companies, he said.

Current Needs

Byrnes noted in his announcement that the study will help finance a technical analysis and evaluation of current and short-range needs for buses in the area.

The Appleton bus crisis came to light some time ago when the company reported financial losses. Subsequently, officials of the company, the Fox River Bus Lines, Inc., asked the city for a subsidy, and it was granted temporarily after bus drivers refused to operate buses within the city for a short time.

Since that incident last summer, the city has stopped its subsidy, the company has revised its in-city routes and a referendum is slated for April on whether the city should subsidize the company for an indefinite period.

Oshkosh began subsidizing its bus firm last September.

Woehler to Run for County Executive

Outagamie County Administrator Alvin Woehler today became the third announced candidate for the recently created post of county executive.

candidates file their nomination papers. Buckley took out his nomination papers from the county clerk's office Tuesday. More candidates for the new post are expected to announce next month.

Woehler, an Appleton native, has worked for Outagamie County 7½ years, starting in August 1963 as the county's first executive secretary. In that capacity, his duties have included that of auditor and secretary to the county board.

Named to New Post

Last January the county board, by a 34-9 vote, named him to the new post of county administrator.

Before being hired by Outagamie County, Woehler was associated for five years with an Appleton auditing firm that serviced the county.

His other jobs have included that of an agent for the Internal Revenue Service, office manager and controller at a Menasha paper firm and public accountant.

He attended Lawrence University, completed contract negotiation courses at Duke University and attended management seminars at the University of Wisconsin. Woehler served 4½ years in Army Ordnance.

Appleton Youth Taken From Burning Auto Improving at Hospital

An Appleton youth, who apparently suffered a seizure Monday morning causing his auto to leave a northside street and later catch fire, is improving today at Appleton Memorial Hospital, authorities there said.

Gary Koehn, 20, 1616 N. Rankin St., remains in the intensive care unit, where he is no longer in a coma. He was not injured by the accident itself.

Appleton police said Koehn was driving south on N. Meade Street, just north of Brewster, when his auto jumped the curb and burst into flames after the tires, spinning wildly, caught fire. He had to be lifted from the burning car by firefighters.

Grand Chute Must Begin Advance Voter Registration

The Town of Grand Chute expects to register its voters prior to election day this year for the first time.

But it may be 10 years late in starting.

State law provides that when the population of a municipality reaches 5,000, voters must be registered in advance of elections.

Communities under 5,000 population register voters as they appear at the polling place on election day. That is the method Grand Chute has followed until now.

The new census figures place the town population at 5,264. The 1960 figure was 5,035, just over the number requiring voter preregistration.

But Town Clerk Leslie Woldt said he didn't start registration procedures 10 years ago because 340 persons counted in the census were mental patients at Outagamie County Hospital.

Mental Patients

In 1962, Woldt said, Secretary of State Robert C. Zimmerman wrote a letter asking the town clerk why he didn't register town voters.

Woldt said he replied by pointing out the number who were mental patients, and Zimmerman answered that, "When the official population exceeds 5,000 exclusive of inmates it would appear that the town has no alternative but to follow" voter registration requirements.

Woldt said he took Zimmerman's phrase, "exclusive of inmates," to mean he didn't have to register voters as long as subtracting the number of mental patients left a population under 5,000.

State Requirement

The current number of mental patients at the county hospital is 221, which would leave the town population over 5,000 even if the inmates are deducted from the total.

An assistant attorney in the attorney general's office today said it appears from a quick look at the statute books that mental patients and similar institutional inmates are to be included in the population figure, even if there is question whether they are eligible to vote.

He said statutes require voter registration when population of a municipality exceeds 5,000, and if people are counted in the census "they are part of the population regardless of whether or not they are entitled, registerable voters."

He advised that in determining whether a municipality is large enough to require voter registration, "I would look to the figures and wouldn't try to break them down as to what kind of people they are composed of."

The last regular or special federal census is the basis for determining population, under the definition used in the statutes, he added.

Woldt said this morning that whether or not he should have been registering voters for the past 10 years is now "water over the dam."

But he added, "As soon as this 1970 census is official, we're going to go about registering our voters."

IRS Forms Will be Here By Tuesday

Uncle Sam's unwelcomed packages are just about ready to arrive at nearly 22,000 Appleton mail boxes. The envelopes, containing the 1970 income tax forms, instructions and return envelopes are now beginning to trickle in at the Appleton Post Office, and Postmaster Francis Sumnicht said he expects most will be delivered to homes and businesses by Tuesday.

The 22,000 forms, he estimates, represent about a five per cent increase over last year's total. And for the country as a whole approximately 75 million are already well on their way.

Under procedures worked out several years ago between the Postal Service and Internal Revenue, the IRS forms are first printed according to ZIP-Coded destinations. Then they are shipped flat to sectional centers in cartons under surface transportation schedules, arranged so as not to interfere with Christmas mail.

The bulk presorted and ZIP-Coded shipments are sent from seven IRS centers — Andover, Mass.; Philadelphia, Pa.; Chamblee, Ga. (a branch of Atlanta); Austin, Tex.; Kansas City, Mo.; Ogden, Utah, and Cincinnati Ohio.

The IRS forms are forwardable, and persons who have moved and left a forwarding address need have no worry that they will not get the message from Uncle Sam.

Officials estimate that 20 per cent of last year's IRS mailing was forwarded.

Forms that are undeliverable, however, are not returned to Internal Revenue. This cuts shipping and handling costs of the large amounts of paper forms.

Woman Injured in Two-Car Collision

A young woman was taken to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 9 a.m. after her car and another collided at a busy Appleton intersection.

Police said that Faye Blank, 22, 1923 N. Clark St., sustained bumps to both knees. Her car, and one driven by Viola A. Filz, 47 718 E. Fremont St., collided at College Avenue and Richmond Street. Damage to both cars was estimated at $1,000. Lorry's ambulance made the emergency run to the hospital.

'Fun' Becomes 'Tag'
In Talking Globe Test

BY CAPPY DICK

Go from "Fun" to "Tag" in four moves and you may win (A) a packet of 100 world-wide postage stamps for your stamp collection and (B) an exciting, educational Encyclopedia Britannica "Talking Globe."

The stamp packets will be awarded as local qualifying prizes, one for each of the five to the whole family. Not only is it unusual in its colorful appearance (the oceans are shown black, the continents in a variety of bright colors), but included with it is a recording that reproduces the dramatic sounds of nature—the rumble of earthquakes, the roar of volcanoes, the eruption of volcanoes, the howl of typhoons and the beat of rain, along with the dramatic story of "Mr. World" as told by a famous traveler.

The puzzle requires contestants to start with the word "Fun" (printed in the picture above) and, changing one letter at a time, go to the word "Tag." Four changes are allowed. Print the words in the proper spaces.

Clip out the picture, paste it on a sheet of paper, print your name, age, address and Zip Code number beneath it, then decorate the entry in any neat, original way, using paints, crayons or cutouts.

Finally, address it to Cappy Dick's Midweek "Talking Globe" Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

Names of the prize winners will be published here. Their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none can be returned.

Demand for Rural Resources Grows

DETROIT, Mich. — The future growth of metropolitan areas will bring heavier demands on rural resources, a University of Wisconsin-Green Bay educator has warned. Dr. Raymond Vlasin urged dealing with the problem on a regional basis, through a broadly based alliance of social and physical scientists and public administrators.

Addressing a joint meeting of the American Agricultural Economics and American Economics associations Monday, Vlasin urged economists to consider dropping traditional concepts of regions bounded by county or state lines in considering regional economic and environmental problems.

The UWGB vice chancellor for community outreach and research cited the recently formed state administrative districts in Wisconsin as examples of regional thinking. In each district one or more metropolitan centers are linked with several municipalities and many smaller government units, he said.

Task Force Member

Vlasin was a member of the Reeve Task Force that defined mutual interests and characteristics of Northeastern Wisconsin communities and recommended the boundaries for the Lake Michigan and Lake Winnebago Administrative Districts.

He also was chairman of the Mission 70 Committee for the two regions, which recently proposed an outline for dealing with regional growth problems in coming decades.

Physical uniformity or natural resource ties should not be the only factors considered in deciding where a region's boundaries lie, said Vlasin. Economic, communications, recreation, transportation, social, educational and other cultural ties also should be considered, he said.

To illustrate changes in the rural countryside, Vlasin cited the removal of 37 million acres of U.S. cropland from agricultural use in the past 20 years.

Increased Demand

While the decreasing need for land for food production is a basic element in the change, Vlasin also cited increasing demands for nonmetropolitan land in areas adjacent to growing urban centers such as Milwaukee, Madison and the Fox Valley-Green Bay area, as well as areas near major cities across the nation.

Urban areas need outlying land for residential-recreational uses, business, industrial and service facility sites, public and private recreational areas, waste disposal and highway and airport transportation facilities, he said.

Nonmetropolitan areas also provide growing cities with water resources for recreation, power, industry, waste treatment and other uses, Vlasin said.

"Since every indication is that population will concentrate in the metropolitan and megalopolitan areas, this increased demand will have its origin in the metropolitan areas and have its impact in the nonmetropolitan areas — namely the rural environments," he told the economists.

Population Increase

U.S. population is expected to increase about 15 per cent in the next 10 years, he said, making it "absolutely certain that the amount of resources demanded will increase."

At the same time, he forecast a continued increase in the public's demand to curtail pollution and protect resources and the environment.

So far, Vlasin said this demand hasn't been matched "with corresponding remedial action."

"Neither has there been general public recognition of the fundamental inconsistency between the growing demand for more resources and the growing demand for higher quality resources."

He added that the public must be made to realize that more conveniences, comforts and consumption result in more waste — which must be absorbed largely by the rural environments.

He urged economists to join forces with sociologists, psychologists, political scientists, anthropologists and professional administrators to look for solutions.

Constitutional Amendment Proposed

Steiger Seeks Uniform Voting Age

WASHINGTON — Congress should "move at once" towards passage of a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age to 18 in all elections, says Sixth District Cong. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh.

Steiger made that statement in his weekly Washington Report from the capital. He was reacting to the U.S. Court's decision last week making 18-year-olds eligible to vote in national elections for President, Vice President and U.S. senators and representatives.

The court also decided, however, that Congress could not lower the voting age to 18 for state and local elections. That must be done by the state legislatures themselves, or by a constitutional amendment.

Steiger had predicted that the Court would decide that way when Congress originally lowered the voting age.

"The court's action means that the Congress should move at once to begin the process of a constitutional amendment which can be submitted to the states for ratification," Steiger wrote in his report.

Steiger, who recommended work start at once on passage of a constitutional amendment before, said again that he would "support every effort to pass a constitutional amendment to lower the voting age."

He said the Court decision has created "great confusion" in Congress and because the decision only applies to national elections and because some states already have 18-year-old minimum voting ages, while many others do not.

Senate Inaction

"It is tragic that so much has been stopped or delayed by the failure to act in the Senate," Steiger said.

He believes that the chances for lowering the voting age to 18 through state action "across the country can't be judged to be very good."

He said in 11 of 15 states that held referendums in November, 1970, to lower the voting age were defeated. In the other four, the age was not lowered to 18, but to 20 in two and 19 in the other two.

"Similarly, a drive has already begun to have the Congress initiate the procedure for amending the U.S. Constitution to provide for lowering the voting age to 18," he continued. "Thirty-eight states would have to ratify any such amendment. It would seem very doubtful that this could be accomplished by the time of the 1972 elections."

Dual Voting

"Considering the costs of installing a dual voting system, many states will be trying to lower the voting age for all elections," Steiger predicted. "Such a bill was introduced in the (Wisconsin) state assembly this year, and will doubtless be renewed when state lawmakers reconvene in January."

On Tuesday, the legislative study committee approved, in an 8-1 vote, drafting of legislation that would enact a new law lowering the voting age to 18 through a state-wide referendum in November, 1972. It would thus not be in effect for the 1972 elections.

Steiger noted that 250,000 18 to 21-year olds now will be able to vote in national elections. Nationally, 11.2 million new voters will go to the polls.

He said Census Bureau estimates show that the new voters would include about 900,000 high school students, four million college students, 4.1 million full-time workers, one million housewives, 800,000 in the other categories.

Also in his Washington Report, Steiger said he was "pleased" with the Senate's action to sustain President Nixon's veto of the manpower bill.

"The Nixon administration and many of us in the Congress have committed ourselves to a responsible, solid, truly comprehensive manpower bill, including a significant public service employment program," he said.

The bill passed by Congress, however, differed from the House bill co-sponsored by Steiger by providing more emphasis on public service employment provisions.

"It is apparent that some in the Congress are more interested in an issue than in helping those unemployed who need training and jobs," Steiger said.

Menasha Computer Streamlines Records

MENASHA — An IBM computer is roaring away right now at the Twin City Savings and Loan building in downtown Menasha. It could revolutionize a host of city operations in the future.

Right now, it's in the city as part of a program funded by the Wisconsin Council on Criminal Justice to improve local police department record keeping and investigate efficiency.

The council is paying $17,795 for a one-year program to be carried out by the Menasha police department on a trial basis. The rest — $11,886 — is being furnished by the city, primarily through contributions of personnel.

Daily Reports

During the next year, daily complaint and accident report records will be fed into the machine. When an investigating officer needs some information, he will push a button and get it in an instant. Result: efficiency and cost savings.

If the system works like Police Chief Lester Clark and others think it will, other cities may contract with the city to

Ordinances Bring Few Complaints of Snowmobile Abuse

NEENAH-MENASHA — Although both cities have tough snowmobile ordinances, the county court backlog hasn't been affected because there haven't been any arrested so far this year.

Menasha's ordinance has been in effect since last March but no arrests have been made. Neenah's was passed two weeks ago, and since only spotty complaints have filtered in.

Menasha snowmobilers have been banned from city streets and parks but they can run the speedy machines on private property with the owner's permission between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m.

In Neenah, they can't run at all and apparently haven't been, at least noticeably enough to bring any arrests.

'Good Judgement'

Neenah Police Chief Lawrence Malouf said all complaints are being investigated, but "enforcement is being tempered with good judgement."

Menasha Police Capt. Tony Ashenbrenner, citing the lack of complaints, speculated that much of the noise and safety were being policed within the snowmobilers ranks.

Neenah's ordinance came to a head two weeks ago when two aldermen had been barraged with complaints about the noise from the machines.

Ald. Lester Herzfeldt, Sixth Ward, who heads the public protection committee which proposed the ordinance, said today that he has had but two calls since it was passed and "those came from snowmobilers who were opposed to the ordinance."

Neenah police said they get calls every day from persons asking for permission to run their machines from their home to areas in the town or Lake Winnebago.

However, the desk sergeant pointed out that each request is turned down. "We can't give them permission to violate the ordinance," he said.

Snowmobile owners have reacted strongly to Neenah's ordinance arguing that it is only a few of their ranks which have abused the use of machines. Clubs, which have been formed for snowmobile owners and operators, have launched safety and respect for private property programs. The Drifters, a Neenah group, has even compiled its own booklet telling their members to observe all safety rules and urging them to get permission from property owners before taking a run across the lawn or through the field.

Ashenbrenner said, "The clubs are putting the pressure on their members to abide by the rules because they realize that if they don't, there'll be more rules to abide by."

Fall in Shower Is Fatal to Rural Fremont Man

FREMONT — Adrian Van Lyssel, 52, route 1, died Tuesday morning after an artery was severed when he slipped in the shower and thrust his arm through the glass shower door.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller said that Van Lyssel was dead on arrival at Waupaca Riverside Hospital. He died of a loss of blood, he said.

Funeral services are set at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at SS Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Weyauwega. Lewin Funeral Home, Fremont, is handling arrangements.

$430,000 Bond Issue Passes on 1-0 Vote

SNOWBIRD VILLAGE, Utah (AP) — A $430,000 bond issue for construction of a sewer line through the Snowbird service area won unanimous approval Tuesday. The vote was 1-0.

The vote was cast by Ed Johnson, general manager of the service area, and its only registered voter.

The 6½-mile sewer line will run from Snowbird, a ski resort being built in a canyon south-east of Salt Lake City, to a junction with a main line.

Sun Devils, Tar Heels in Peach Bowl

Arizona State to Pit Speed Against Punishing Assault

ATLANTA (AP) — Undeated Arizona State, the nation's No. 8 power, and ball control-minded North Carolina collided tonight in the third annual Peach Bowl football game, a postseason event that has been plagued by rain the last two years.

A day-long rain Tuesday soaked Georgia Tech's Grant Field, site of the 7 p.m. CST kickoff, but the weather bureau forecast fair and cool weather for the game. Each of the two previous Peach Bowls has been played in rain.

Bill Dooley, the Tar Heel coach who counts on a punishing ground assault led by All-American running back Don McCauley, would welcome more rain to slow down the speedy Sun Devils who have six offensive performers who sprint 100 yards in 9.8 seconds or better.

"After thinking about then speed, I'm a more firm believer in tradition now than ever before," said Dooley, whose Tar Heels are a six-point underdog.

While Dooley frets about speed, ASU Coach Frank Kush, possessor of the second winningest record by percentage in college football, says that speed won't mean much if the Sun Devils can't get the ball.

Dooley's game plan is simple, he says.

"We have to control the ball,"

Warriors, Badgers Win Handily, Clash for Title

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MILWAUKEE — Marquette and Wisconsin renew their intrastate basketball rivalry tonight in the finals of the ninth annual Milwaukee Classic after both clubs scored easy first-round victories at the Arena here Tuesday night.

Marquette, ranked third in the country and the pre-meet favorite, pushed its 2-season win streak to 19 games with a 98-55 thrashing of overmatched Dartmouth, while Wisconsin controlled the boards to subdue cold-shooting Texas, 89-73.

The Warriors (7-0) and Badgers (5-2) will tangle at 9:30 p.m. for the tournament crown, the fifth occasion the title game has paired the same foes. In the four previous MU-UW championship battles, the teams have split with two wins apiece, but Wisconsin has a 4-3 edge over Marquette in overall Classic title won.

Dartmouth and Texas clash for consolation honors at 7:30 p.m.

Couldn't Recover

"It looks like we caught them off guard, and they never recovered," Marquette coach Al McGuire explained following his Warriors' hatchet job on the Indians. "They can't possibly be that weak — it's just that they laid off that long (Dartmouth's last start was Dec. 5), and they had to pay the price."

"The price" came in the form of MU's vaunted pressing defense, which rattled the Indians into 34 turnovers, including 25 in the first half when Marquette took a commanding 51-23 advantage.

A rout had been in evidence from the start. The Indians committed five errors inside the first three minutes, and the host club ran up a 9-0 lead. With 6 1/2 minutes gone, it was 21-7. Later, the slick Warriors reeled off nine more points in a row for a 35-14 bulge.

"I think we got tremendously shook in the first couple of minutes of the game, and we were never really able to recover," losing Dartmouth mentor George Blaney shrugged.

Forced to Corners

"We thought we had worked pretty hard against their pressure and doing what we wanted to do against it," he continued, "but we constantly kept throwing the ball to the corner — the one place you can't throw it — and they double-teamed us."

Marquette, gunning for its third straight Classic crown, sizzled from the floor with 59.7 per cent on 40 field goals in 67 attempts. In contrast, Dartmouth was limited to a 37.0 mark on just 20 buckets in 54 tries. MU had a 33-28 margin on the boards.

Dean Meminger was again the Warriors' leader with 22 points. The flashy New York City senior delighted the capacity crowd of 10,746 several times with his ball-handling wizardry and eye-popping feeds to teammates under the basket.

Forward Gary Brell added 16 points. Jim Chones 14, and Allie McGuire 11. The remaining starter, Bob Lackey, contributed eight points.

Bright spots for Dartmouth were sophomore guard Jim Brown, who finished with 21 points — 16 of them in the second half, and forward Paul Erlund, who totaled 18. In one stretch, Brown scored on three consecutive 3-point plays.

21 For Richgels

Wisconsin got a career-high total of 21 points from center Glen Richgels in beating the Longhorns, who had won three in a row coming into the tournament.

Richgels, a 6-8 senior, led a Badger charge at the start that produced a 9-0 lead. The former Madison West prep star was personally responsible for his team's first seven points, and by intermission Richgels had 15 markers as UW enjoyed a 50-29 cushion.

Badger coach John Powless was particularly pleased with Richgels' efforts, pointing out, "Our players went to him and played behind him early. There was no hesitation. It would be different if our players didn't have confidence in him."

Sophomore Leon Howard backed Richgels with 18 points, while Clarence Sherrod and Denny Conlon sank 13 each. Sherrod made just five of 17 field goal attempts toward his worst scoring performance of the season.

Texas, which shot 28 per cent in the first half and finished with a 33.3 log for the ballgame, got untracked after its poor start ranged to within three points at 18-15 and 20-17 with over nine minutes gone.

The Badgers were up by six, 27-20, inside the 8-minute mark when Sherrod and Gary Watson both went out with foul trouble. But then reserves Bob Frasier and Denny Conlon sparked a 17-4 Badger surge and a 43-24 advantage.

"Fraser and Conlon took control of the ballclub, ran our halfcourt offense, and created a little more pressure defensively," Powless noted of the strategy.

Texas coach Leon Black was miffed by his club's performance, mentioning the possibility of "stage fright" before the large audience.

"We just usually play a little better," he began. "What did we shoot, 28 per cent in the first half? We used to shoot a little better, and I thought we could rebound better — maybe we can't."

Wisconsin won the rebounding battle, 54-37, as Richgels grabbed 15 and Howard 13.

Bucks Blitz Lowly Cavs

CLEVELAND (AP) — The Milwaukee Bucks, playing to the biggest National Basketball Association crowd of the Cleveland season, blitzed the star-crossed Cavaliers 119-87 Tuesday night.

That was a considerably easier triumph for the Bucks than the 110-108 victory of Nov. 4, when the lowly Cavaliers forced Lew Alcindor to hit a pro-career high of 53 points.

Contract Between Frazier-Ali Could Be Signed Today

NEW YORK (AP) — The most talked about, sought after fight in many years—Joe Frazier-Muhammad Ali was expected to be announced today for March 8 by Madison Square Garden Boxing.

Harry Markson, the Garden's boxing director, said Tuesday no contract had been signed, but he also said:

"We have assurances (of a signed contract)."

"We expect to do better than a million dollars at the gate."

"The fighters will get $2.5 million apiece."

The total of $5 million for Frazier, the world heavyweight champion, and Ali, the deposed heavyweight king, will come from gross revenue that could be in the area of $10 million.

The fight which will be the richest in history also will be one of the most appealing.

For the world's fight fans it has two unbeaten fighters—Frazier, a two-fisted slugger with a killer's instinct, and Ali, a stylist who can dazzle but who also can knock out an opponent.

Cleveland trailed 29-23 after the first quarter, but 7,600 spectators kept up the cheering enthusiasm for their humble club in what is becoming something of an NBA club-boosing legend.

Even with a deficit of 100-65, the Cavalier fans were still screaming.

A sympathetic Coach Larry Costello reduced the number of Bucks regulars on the floor to two, and Cleveland managed to outscore its guests 20-5.

Alcindor sat out the final 10 minutes, but finished with 23 points. Teammate Bob Dandridge had a like amount.

The Bucks ride a five game winning streak into tonight's televised Channel 11 game at Philadelphia.

Packer Executive Committee Meets

Review Several Candidates

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — The Packer executive committee has met in formal session to pursue the search for a successor to Phil Bengtson but, officially, is no closer to a decision than it was 24 hours earlier.

Following the Tuesday morning conclave, President Dominick Olejniczak emerged to release a general 2-sentence statement.

It read: "The Packer executive committee met and reviewed several possible candidates. The committee will process the applications and proceed immediately to contact the persons they feel are best suited for the job."

Olejniczak, who has steadfastly maintained a "no comment" policy on all rumored candidates since Bengtson resigned as head coach and general manager Dec. 22, said he could offer nothing further at this point.

Frequently Mentioned

Obviously, because he apparently will soon be among the unemployed as the result of differences with owner Dan Reeves, and because he has forged an impressive 49-17-4 record in Los Angeles, the Rams' George Allen has been most frequently mentioned in speculation about Bengtson's likely successor.

It is believed in some quarters, however, that the committee is seeking a highly regarded assistant coach from the pro ranks because of the late Vince Lombardi's great success here after being plucked from the New York Giants' staff in 1959.

Olejniczak has emphasized no timetable has been set for a decision, although it is hoped that it can be made before the National Football League draft, scheduled Jan. 28.

Fox Valley Lutheran's varsity team downed the alumni, 75-67, Tuesday night.

Jim Petermann captured game honors as he fired in 30 points for the alumni. Beck Goldbeck added 12.

The varsity utilized its balance to offset the outstanding effort of the 6-5 Petermann.

Dennis Kasten led the winners with 20 points, Eric Troge added 15, Dave Romberg 13 and Jeff Grow 10.

Starr Will Receive 'Dimes' Sports Award

Green Bay Packer quarterback Bart Starr will be honored Jan. 20 at the second annual Sports Award banquet sponsored by the Outagamie County March of Dimes chapter.

The award will be presented at the 7:30 p.m. banquet at the Left Guard Charcoal House in Appleton for Starr's former team mate, ex-Packer quarterback and now coach Zeke Bratkowski.

The award was set up to honor outstanding men and athletes, said Thomas Janssen and Ryan Covens, co-chairman of the county organization.

Robert (Rocky) Bleier, former Notre Dame University star now with the Pittsburgh Steelers received the first award a year ago.

Janssen said that there will be 200 tickets available for the Public at $5 plus a donation. They will be sold at Appleton Trophy Supply, Inc., Berggren's Ski & Sports Shop, Bleier's Bar, all of Appleton, the Bank of Menasha, and Kraemer Greenhouses, Inc., Neenah.

Janssen said that a prime rib dinner will be served.

New York Records 21st Home Verdict Without a Defeat

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Hockey League season had stretched some 36 games and, for the New York Rangers, most of it had been successful. Still, defenseman Arnie Brown was worried.

Two years ago, Brown scored 10 goals for the Rangers. Last season he had 15—second highest total for any NHL defenseman. The only blueline man with more was Boston's sensational Bobby Orr who, Brown figures, ought to be in a league of his own anyway.

Then came this season and a big, fat zero in Brown's goal-scoring column. It was becoming distressing.

Now the pressure's off, Brown got his first goal Tuesday night, and it turned out to be the winner in New York's 3-2 victory over California in the only NHL game scheduled.

The victory stretched New York's home ice unbeaten streak to 19 games this season and 21 over two seasons, matching a club record. It also moved the Rangers into first place in the East Division race, one point ahead of idle Boston. The Bruins have played two fewer games.

It's a fact that Brown was the only Ranger regular without a goal until Tuesday night and his teammates knew it. As soon as his shot beat California goalie Gary Smith, a teammate scurried after the puck to preserve it for Brown.

"Yeah, some smart guy brought the puck over," grinned Brown. "I told them, 'I want the net.'"

Manning to Face Auburn but Must Protect Elbow

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Doctors here told Mississippi quarterback Archie Manning that he must wear a protective sleeve when the Rebels meet Auburn in the Gator Bowl Jan. 2.

Physicians told Manning Monday they aren't fearful of a blow to the passer's left arm, but to insure proper healing, the elbow must remain immobilized.

Acting Coach Frank Kinard said Manning is in better shape now than when he and the Rebels were bombed by Louisiana State Dec. 12.

In that game, Manning wore the same protective device. Manning broke the arm in an earlier game with Houston.

Oscar Also Selected Bucks' Alcindor Top Vote-Getter for West

NEW YORK (AP) — Jerry West, Oscar Robertson and Wilt Chamberlain were selected to the National Basketball Association All-Star team for the 11th time today, but Lew Alcindor was the top votegetter for the Western Conference squad.

Alcindor, Milwaukee's super center in his second year in the league, polled 16,800 points out of a possible 17 from the sports writers and sportscasters in the 17 league cities.

Joining him on the starting team for the game Jan. 12 at San Diego are West of Los Angeles and Dave Bing of Detroit at the guards and Connie Hawkins of Phoenix and Jerry Lucas of San Francisco at forward.

Robertson of Milwaukee, Chamberlain of Los Angeles and Bob Love of Chicago complete the eight-man squad selected. Love made the team for the first time.

Candidly, off its record, the Packer offense would hardly appear to abound with all-pro candidates.

The Packer attackers, held without a touchdown in four games, finished next to last in the National Football League's 13-team National Conference on a statistical basis — just ahead of Chicago's generally impotent Bears.

Yet, guard Gale Gillingham has not only been named to the United Press-International all-pro team but also chosen for the NFC Pro Bowl squad by vote of his fellow players.

These developments may seem somewhat contradictory in light of the figures but they come as no surprise to old pro Forrest Gregg, Gillingham's sage mentor and former roommate, who merely regards them as evidence of the selectors' discrimination.

Gregg, himself rated by many the premier offensive tackle in NFL history, says,

"Just looking back over the season, Gillie didn't have one bad game. And you have to remember the kind of defensive tackles he was playing against — he played Alex Karras twice, Charley Krueger of the 49ers, Gary Larsen from Minnesota, Mean Joe Greene of Pittsburgh, the kid Mike Reid from Cincinnati, the rookie who was tearing up everybody, and George Seals of the Bears."

"Despite that kind of competition, I can remember his getting beat on the pass rush only a couple times all season — and pass protection is the offensive lineman's primary responsibility. That's really a great record, considering the people he's been playing against."

Itemizing the gifted ex-Gopher's assets, Gregg observed, "I don't know of any guard anywhere stronger than Gillie is — and he has tremendous speed for a guy his size."

Kentucky State Tips Eau Claire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Kentucky State, the nation's top-ranked small-college basketball team, picked up a championship in Wisconsin holiday tournaments Tuesday night while several Dairy State schools achieve finals berths tonight.

The Thorobreds, the defending NAIA national champions, overcame Eau Claire State in the host Blugolds' tournament 71-67.

It was the first loss this season for Eau Claire, whose small college national rating had climbed from 18th to 15th this week.

Elsewhere on the tournament circuit, Lincoln University of Missouri beat Platteville 92-82 for the Platteville invitational championship. Stevens Point advanced to the finals of the Augustus, Ga., tournament; Stout State reached the finals of its tournament; River Falls State took third place in an Iowa tourney, and Ripon College moved to the finals of an Illinois meet.

Take 12-Point Edge Kentucky State (6-0) led Eau Claire 43-37 at halftime, ran up a 53-41 lead, then had to struggle to keep the Blugolds from coming any closer than four points.

The Thorobreds completed only 47 per cent of their shots from the field, and Eau Claire sagged to 35 per cent.

Wiley of Texas (8-4) trailed for the first eight minutes, then got away to an 87-81 decision over Dominican College of Racine for third place in the Blugolds' second annual invitational.

Lincoln and Platteville were deadlocked eight times before the Missouri school broke away from a 60-60 tie to victory. St. Mary's of Winona, Minn., took third place with an 88-82 decision over Northeastern of Illinois after trailing at halftime 48-45.

Stevens Point was down 51-37 at intermission, then converted 67 per cent of its field shots in the second half for an 88-77 victory over host Augusta.

The Pointers (8-1) had four of their five starters scoring in double figures, led by Tom Ritzenthaler's 25 points. They face Wofford of South Carolina tonight for the Augusta title.

Ripon defeated Albion 104-84 behind the 35-point scoring of Mike Saloun to reach tonight's Decatur finals opposite Franklin of Indiana. Franklin defeated Millikin 101-87 in the Decatur, Ill., tourney.

Wisconsin-Green Bay topped Central Iowa 92-69 and host North Park trimmed Concordia of River Forest, Ill., 95-78 to set up tonight's tourney final in Chicago.

Green Bay led 41-29 at intermission, and was led by Ray Willis' 30 points.

In non-tournament action, Youngstown of Ohio held off a Titan rally in the second half, and downed Oshkosh State 63-56. Oshkosh led its hosts by three points with five minutes remaining, but wrapped it up with on-

Fox Cities Amateur Baseball Club Formed

The newly-formed Fox Cities Amateur Baseball Association, which hopes to obtain a franchise in the Wisconsin State Semi-Pro League, has begun a fund-raising campaign.

One of the phases of the fund campaign is a 1-question contest, in which six winners will each receive a half-barrel of beer. Tickets for the contest can be purchased at Bleier's, the Coach Lamp Inn and Pond's, and from officials and prospective players of the new team. Winners will be

MARION — The Hortonville Polar Bears came on strong in the second half of a non-conference basketball tilt to defeat the Marion Mustangs 72-60, Tuesday night. The win boosts the Polar Bears' over-all slate to 7-1, making it six straight wins. The Mustangs dropped back to 5-4 over-all, with the loss ending a 3-game winning streak.

The Mustangs had a hot first quarter, outdistancing Hortonville, 23-13, but in the second frame the Polar Bears started their comeback outscoring the Mustangs, 17-9. The Mustangs retained their lead taking a half-time advantage of 32-30 into the locker room.

In the third stanza, the Polar Bears dominated with hot shooting and a full-court press that frustrated Marion to score 27 points to the Mustangs' 17. Jimmy Williams, 161, in the seventh round.

Bruins, Trojans Triumph

Irish Beat Kentucky Behind Carr's 50

By KEN RAPPOPORT Associated Press Sports Writer

Here comes Austin Carr . . . oops, there goes Austin Carr.

Notre Dame's point-dealing wizard is the same model as last year, running and gumming as good as new.

The runaway Carr hit eighth-ranked Kentucky with a 50-point performance and led the 15th-ranked Irish to a 99-92 victory in college basketball Tuesday night.

Carr helped Notre Dame accelerate to a 15-4 spree late in the first half that gave the Irish a never-topped 53-39 lead at intermission.

The Wildcats climbed to within five points three times in the second stanza but Notre Dame's freeze-ball tactics killed the comeback try.

Top-ranked UCLA walloped William & Mary 90-71 in the Steel Bowl Tournament at Pittsburgh; third-ranked Marquette brushed off Dartmouth 98-55 in the Milwaukee Classic and No. 4 Southern Cal bombed Michigan State 88-63 and Houston stunned No. 10 Tennessee 68-65 in the Trojan Classic at Los Angeles.

Penn Quaker King Sixth-rated Penn downed cross-town rival Temple 76-55 to win the Quaker City Classic at Philadelphia and No. 9 Jacksonville turned back Creighton 94-85 in the Gold Coast Classic at West Palm Beach, Fla., in the night's other top games.

Notre Dame, which lost to two other ranked clubs—South Carolina and Indiana—by a total of eight points—didn't take any chances with Kentucky. The Irish ran their lead to 18 points at one time and the Wildcats were too far behind to catch them.

UCLA forged its victory over stubborn William & Mary behind Sidney Wicks' 23 points and 20 by Steve Patterson.

Dean "The Dream" Meminger put Dartmouth to sleep with 22 points as Marquette ran its record to 7-0. The Warriors were never headed, scoring the first nine points and building first-half leads of 22-7 and 43-17.

Dave Wohl, one of the little guys on Penn's rangy Quakers, scored 25 points in their Quaker City success. Temple got to within six points in the second half, but Penn scored 15 of the next 20 points to pull away.

Guards Dennis Layton and Paul Westphal led Southern California's second-half surge as the Trojans, leading only 49-46 shortly after the intermission, opened a 21-point margin late in the game.

Poo Welch stole the ball and passed to Larry Brown, who hit the field goal and a succeeding free throw for Houston.

Harold Fox scored 19 points to lead Jacksonville to its sixth

Leon Burns Joins West Shrine Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Leon Burns, Long Beach State's muscular running back, joined the West squad Tuesday for the Shrine East-West football game Saturday.

Burns, 6-feet-1 and 230 pounds, is a replacement for Willie Armstrong of Grambling who suffered a knee injury in practice Monday and will not play.

Denmark Bank Seeks to Join Holding Firm

An agreement has been reached for the affiliation of the Badger State Bank, Denmark, with Valley Bancorporation, Fox Cities-based registered bank holding company, A. A. Maurer, Badger State president, and Gus A. Zuehlke, Bancorporation president, announced Tuesday.

The affiliation will be completed through an exchange of stock. Terms were not disclosed.

Zuehlke said the proposal is subject to the approval of the board of governors of the Federal Reserve System and shareholders of the bank and the corporation.

He added that the bank will continue to be managed by its present board of directors and officers, and that the affiliation would provide customers and shareholders of the bank with a broader base of financial and managerial resources which will enable the bank to better serve the economic needs of its community.

The eight banks in the corporation serve eastern Wisconsin through 13 banking offices. The board of governors of the Federal Reserve System has approved the acquisition of the bank of Kewaskum, and an application for prior approval of the acquisition of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, Weyauwega, is pending before the Board.

Loewi Official Named To Association Post

R. Ron Heiligenstein, who last September joined Loewi & Co., Inc., Milwaukee-based investment firm with an Appleton office, has been appointed chairman of the finance committee of the National Association of Securities Dealers' board of Governors.

He is a vice president and director of Loewi and has been a member of the board of governors since 1969.

Discussion on Student Aids Is Scheduled

Private Colleges to Meet at Lawrence For Jan. 8 Conference

Proposals for providing financial assistance to students in Wisconsin's independent colleges and universities will be the subject of a regional meeting at Jason Downer Center, Lawrence University on Jan. 8.

Lawrence is one of three private Wisconsin institutions at which the meetings will be held. Each is sponsored by the Wisconsin Association of Independent Colleges and Universities (WAICU).

The other schools which will be host to conferences will be Edgewood College, Madison and Marquette University, Milwaukee.

The meetings will be conducted to acquaint trustees, alumni, campus personnel, students and legislators with both current and anticipated proposals regarding student assistance.

Besides Lawrence, the schools to be represented here include Holy Family College, Lakeland College, Marian College, Northland College, Ripon College and St. Norbert College.

The meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and will conclude with a 12:30 p.m. luncheon in the Downer Center.

Three Boys Are Suspected Of Burglary

Three teen-age Appleton boys were taken into custody early today as suspects of a tavern burglary.

A patrolman, on routine patrol, noticed a broken window at Phil's Pettingo Junction tavern, 1525 W. Second St., at 2:50 a.m. One of them was a boy, 16, who obeyed the officer's orders to halt.

A second boy was arrested at his home, and the other went to the police station with his father. The three were referred to juvenile authorities.

Police said an inventory of the tavern moments after the suspected break-in revealed two partially filled boxes of whiskey, which the youths supposedly intended to take.

One of the boys told police he and another had been inside the tavern and that they fled when they saw the lights of the squad car.

Senate Committee Appointments Made

MADISON (AP) — Assignments to state Senate committees continued Tuesday with the naming of two new chairmen and three members.

Named to lead the Joint Standing Committee on Revision, Repeals and Uniform Laws was Sen. Nile Soik, R-Whitefish Bay.

Republican Sen. James Devitt of Greenfield will be vice-chairman of the Joint Survey Committee on Retirement Systems.

Appointed to committees were Wayne Whitow, D-Milwaukee, Joint Committee for Review of Administrative Rules; Jack Steinhilber, R-Oshkosh, Capitol and Executive Residence Board; and Roger Murphy, R-Waukesha, Joint Legislative Committee to Visit State Properties.

Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek, chairman of the Committee on Committees, made the announcements.

Air Wisconsin Ends Service To Milwaukee
Air Wisconsin will discontinue service to Milwaukee's Billy Mitchell field as of Jan. 1, according to Preston Wilbourne, vice president and general manager.

Wilbourne said the carrier would concentrate on the major marketing gateways of Chicago's O'Hare and Minneapolis-St. Paul International airports. Milwaukee had been served with two flights daily, one in the morning and one in the evening.

Wilbourne said a number of factors influenced the decision to discontinue Milwaukee service. Among these were recent joint-fare agreements making it possible to connect passengers to New York cheaper through Chicago than Milwaukee; equal freight rates to Chicago as Milwaukee; elimination of peak air traffic congestion at O'Hare; and better connecting service out of O'Hare.

Cities connected with O'Hare with Air Wisconsin service include Appleton-Neenah-Menasha; Sheboygan, Wausau, Stevens Point, Elkhart, Kokomo, Marion and Lafayette, Ind., and Kankakee, Ill.

Senate Still Trying on SST Controversy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bickering 91st Congress scheduled another attempt today to resolve the controversy that may yet keep it in session as long as the law allows: the future of the supersonic transport plane.

While the House and Senate settled one major problem Tuesday night by passing a $66.6-billion defense appropriations bill, Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said "there's still a long tunnel ahead."

Mansfield said it appears Congress will have to keep working into the weekend, and possibly until noon Sunday—the final moment the 91st can do business.

After that, the Constitution says the Capitol belongs to the 92nd Congress, which actually doesn't plan to meet until Jan. 21.

"It could be we could get down to just one thing, the SST," Mansfield said.

The Senate Tuesday tabled, thus killing a compromise $7-billion transportation appropriation bill that includes $210 million to subsidize the airplane. The Senate earlier had voted to spend nothing at all.

That action prepared the way for a new conference with the House, which first voted $290 million for the SST and then accepted the conference recommendation of $210 million.

Two Added

The Senate expanded to nine men its negotiating delegation, adding Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., chief SST foe and Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., who favors the plane.

But it appeared unlikely the new conference would even begin work before tonight. The House recessed until evening while many members attended the funeral of Rep. L. Mendel Rivers in Charleston, S.C.

Anyway, Senate members of the initial conference said they doubt the new round of talks will do much good. "I think this is an exercise in futility," said Sen. John O. Pastore, D-R.I.

"If you think you're going to go back to that conference and the House is going to eat crow, I don't see it, gentlemen, I don't see it."

Proxmire said if the dispute isn't settled, he will filibuster against the SST to the end of the session.

In other work it did finish Tuesday, the Senate passed, 81 to 0, a massive increase in Social Security benefits—but that bill appeared to be foundering in dispute between the two houses.

Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, said it will be impossible to work out a compromise for passage this Congress.

The Social Security bill would give 26 million Americans a $6.5-billion increase in benefits, and provide another $1 billion in welfare assistance for the aged, the blind and the disabled.

The House passed, 234 to 18, the massive defense money bill, and the Senate sent it on to the White House, 70 to 2. Votes against it were cast by Sens. Albert Gore, D-Tenn., and Charles E. Goodell, R-N.Y., both defeated for re-election.

Bill Stalled

That bill had been stalled in controversy over restrictions on the use of U.S. combat forces in Southeast Asia outside South Vietnam.

The final version bars use of American ground forces in Laos and Thailand, but permits U.S. financial support for South Vietnamese operations in Cambodia and Laos. An earlier bill forbids introduction of U.S. ground troops or advisers into Cambodia.

The Senate passed Tuesday night a bill to continue automobile and telephone excise taxes for the next two years, and to speed collection of estate taxes. It would provide an additional $730 million in federal revenues this year, and $3.3 billion in fiscal 1972.

The Senate tieup prompted House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford to break congressional protocol and issue a sharp rebuke to the Senate.

"We should not let some individuals at the other end of the Capitol, because they think they have us over the barrel time-wise, overthrow judgments and decisions that the House of Representatives has made in the proper course of action," Ford told his colleagues.

To applause from members of both parties, Ford said: "The House of Representatives has done its job and done it well, even though I have not agreed with every decision on every issue."

"But there is another part of this legislative branch that, in my opinion, has not done its job. . . . I do not know what can be done to break the legislative logjam over there so that they can do their job that they are required to do," the Michigan Republican said.

"I just hope and trust that the American people know where the fault lies," Ford added. "It lies at the other end of the Capitol."

Restrictions Eased On Food Stamps

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has insisted all along that the nation's food stamp program prevent recipients from spending the coupons on such goods as liquor, cigarettes, soap and toilet paper.

Now, under a new Agriculture Department policy, if a stamp user moves briskly enough he might be able to collect enough cash in change from food stamps to pay for a cup of New Year's cheer.

Or possibly a bar of soap. Effective today, the department said, grocers will be permitted to pay up to 49 cents cash as change from food stamp sales. This rule will apply to each coupon transaction.

Until now, change for stamps amounting to less than 50 cents had to be in the form of credit slips issued the customer by the store. These could be traded later only at the same store and for approved items on the stamp list.

Food stamps may not be used to buy a variety of nonfood or imported items.

But now, with customers able to get up to 49 cents cash each time they spend food stamps, there are no restrictions on spending the change they collect.

For example, if a food stamp customer using $5 coupons

New Serum Protects Against Rabies

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A new antirabies serum derived from the blood of humans has shown promising results in providing safe temporary protection from the disease, a research team reported today.

Scientists of the University of California at Davis and Cutter Laboratories of Berkeley said it supplements, rather than replaces, the vaccine devised 85 years ago by Louis Pasteur as man's only weapon against a deadly disease which, once contracted, has been almost universally fatal.

Dr. John C. Loofbourow, university biology professor, said in an interview that in year-long experiments involving 40 student volunteers "The material has proved very effective."

It was developed by a Cutter team headed by Dr. Victor Cassano, a research microbiologist.

The Pasteur vaccine, now usually given in a series of shots, a suspension of embryonic chick tissue, does not take effect for 10 to 14 days or more, the doctors explained.

A person bitten by a rabid animal could contract the viral disease before the vaccine has a chance to work.

An example is 6-year-old Michael Winkler of Willshire, Ohio, bitten by a rabid bat Oct. 10. Even though given Pasteur vaccine promptly, he was diagnosed as having acute rabies v. 3. Young Michael is now recovering, but U.S. Public Health Service officials said his is the first documented case of a human surviving the disease.

To overcome the time lag before Pasteur vaccine takes effect, a temporary serum developed from horses has long been used, but Loofbourow explained, "The horse serum causes about 45 per cent of the adult recipients to develop a serious, sometimes fatal, disease—serum sickness, a kind of allergic reaction."

The new serum developed by Cabasso involves taking blood from donors who have been vaccinated against rabies—people such as kennel attendants—and breaking it down to the portion of the plasma containing immunizing factors.

"Since the blood is from humans, and not from animals, it is not basically foreign to the body, and does not cause serious after-effects," Loofbourow said.

"We gave the volunteers the human serum, then took some of their blood and made a serum that was given to laboratory mice. The mice were then exposed to rabies."

"It has proved very effective in protecting the mice."

"None of the students suffered any ill effects. Blood samples were taken over a year-long period."

"The serum is effective only two or three months, getting progressively weaker, but its only aim is to protect until the Pasteur takes effect."

"A person actually exposed to rabies would have to take both—the serum for a temporary umbrella and the Pasteur for immunity," said Loofbourow.

None of the student volunteers underwent exposure to the disease.

The investigators stressed that the new serum is not yet in commercial production, pending further evaluations. Federal licensing is required before such products can be marketed.

"We are through testing for now, but will test again from time to time," Loofbourow said.

The human serum, Loofbourow said, "is about twice as strong as horse serum, without side effects, so care must be taken not to give too large a dosage which might interfere with a person's own antibodies."

Prisoners Vow to 'Sit, Hate'

WALLA WALLA, Wash. (AP) — An estimated 1,000 convicts, vowing they will "sit and hate until the pigs react," remained confined to their cells at Washington State Penitentiary here today for the eighth day.

Prison officials made no predictions on when they would be released.

Meanwhile, prison superintendent B. J. Rhay said he had ordered two prisoner leaders of the Inmates Advisory Council transferred to another facility "because of the strike."

The deadlock began Dec. 22 when prisoners walked off their prison jobs in support of about 140 convicts who refused to shave, violating prison regulations.

"I cannot speculate on when it will end," said Rhay. However, he said Tuesday night that he had spoken with some inmates about subjects "pertinent to this thing" and was "pleased with progress being made."

Attorneys representing some of the convicts released a statement from prisoners which vowed they will "sit and hate until the pigs react—they (prison officials) will if we hang in."

tough as a solid group of men—not animals."

The statement also called for the return of inmate council president Don Cole and secretary James Robideau, who were transferred from the prison on Christmas Day to another facility at Shelton, Wash.

"I thought it was in the best interest of the institution that they should be removed," Rhay said Tuesday night. He said the transfer was only temporary.

Earlier, in a Christmas Day memorandum to prisoners, he said the transfer occurred because "these two individuals seem to say one thing to me in council meetings yet turn around inside the walls and act directly opposite. I believe that if we are going to firm up the communication line it is absolutely necessary for everyone to be above board and open."

Rhay said he planned to meet today with the remaining advisory council members.

The prison holds nearly 1,400 prisoners but about 400 are in maximum security division and are not involved in the dispute.

Prisoners have alleged in letters to Washington newspapers that the support for growing beards and hair merely spared a simmering discontent over prison hospital, parole and disciplinary policies.

Rhay said the number of prisoners who walked off their jobs and returned to their cells numbered in the hundreds. He said all the prisoners were being confined to their cells because of prison security and to avoid splitting them in two groups.

Rhay said prisoners confined to their cells are being fed coffee, sandwiches and fruit through cell doors. He said there has been no violence since convicts left their jobs.

New Theory of Life's Origin Explored

ly resembled molecules of a cyanide-acetylene mixture recently discovered in interstellar space by a researcher of the government's National Radio Astronomy Observatory at Green Bank, W. Va.

The implication, said Greenberg, is that the grains of dirty ice in interstellar space "contain rather complex molecules, a significant fraction of which are possibly of biological significance."

Without Planets

"It may further be conjectured that the prebiogenic (precursors of life) materials in the universe may be created independently of the formation of the planets," he said.

Greenberg's report discussed work completed only in recent weeks. It was a special added attraction to an association symposium at which a battery of other scientists rounded up the "state of the art" on what they termed one of the most exciting new fields of space science.

They referred to the relatively recent discovery, in interstellar space, of a number of molecular chemicals which, in theory at least, could be elementary seeds of life.

Various Materials

The materials range from ammonia to formaldehyde, and from methyl alcohol to formic acid.

And recently a scientist of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration reported evidence of amino acids—the building blocks of living protein—in a meteorite that had fallen to earth.

Dr. Lewis E. Snyder of the University of Virginia, one of today's panelists, said the hunt is on now for amino acids in interstellar space far beyond the realm of the solar system's meteorites.

"And if such are found," he told newsmen, "we'll begin to ask ourselves questions about the origin of life in our entire galaxy—and it will perhaps force a revision of our thinking as to the origin of life on earth."

Far Away

He indicated that if amino acid evidence is found in the far reaches of the Milky Way, it could mean that the earth—and possibly undiscovered planets far beyond the solar system—derived life-forms from the stuff of interstellar space.

But another panelist, Dr. S. H. Bauer, a Cornell University chemist, cautioned against concluding that the discovery of amino acids in space would in itself mean that these were the precursors of life on earth or anywhere else.

"Anyone can make amino acids," he declared. "You can make them in any laboratory. And the fact that amino acids are found in space proves nothing . . . about the question of life's origin."

From the evolutionary standpoint, he said, "Living things are an enormous distance away from amino acids."

GENERAL AD

Governor Erases Death Sentences Of 15 in Arkansas

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, saying he hoped other governors would follow his example, has commuted to life the sentences of all 15 men on death row in Arkansas. The prisoners were jubilant, but some state officials were sharply critical of the action.

Rockefeller, 58, said his only reason for granting the commutations Tuesday was that he was unalterably opposed to the death penalty and hoped to "hasten the elimination of barbarism as a tool of American justice."

Nine of the men, three whites and six blacks, were sentenced for murder. Six others, all blacks, were sentenced for rape of white women.

Leaving Office
The action came two weeks before Rockefeller is to leave office.

Gov.-elect Dale Bumpers, who will succeed Rockefeller Jan. 12, commented:

"I know he acted in accordance with his personal philosophy. I'm sure he had sufficient information to justify in his own mind the action that he took."

Albert Harris, 28, a negro under death sentence in the rape of a white woman eight years ago, said after hearing of his reprieve, "Long as a man got life, he's got a chance."

Said John Henry Sheppard, 26, a black: "Thank Governor

Rockefeller and God." A Bible lay beside Sheppard on his prison bunk.

Larry McGuire superintendent of the Tucker Prison Farm that houses death row, said the 15 men were "very elated, very happy" at the news.

Lawmaker Angry
But state Rep. G. W. "Buddy" Turner of Pine Bluff said he had heard Rockefeller's message to the convicts and "now I'd like to have his message to the victims."

State Sen. Olen Hendrix of Prescott said he was shocked, declaring, "I've always felt that the people who heard the evidence and the presiding judges should know more about how to handle a sentence than a chief executive."

Correction Commissioner Robert Sarver said the wholesale commutation order was unprecedented in Arkansas.

The Rev. J. F. Cooley, a civil rights activist and member of the faculty of all-Negro Shorter College, called Rockefeller's decision a "great act of Christian faith."

A prosecuting attorney, Beryl Anthony Jr. of El Dorado, told newsmen however "It sounds to me like the governor has taken a tremendous burden upon himself and has short-circuited and relieved various courts that have got jurisdiction of the various cases under consideration at the present time."

Mighty Mite Among Bridges

CORONA DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — How strong a toy bridge can you build out of about a half-ounce of balsa wood?

Twenty Corona del Mar High School students entered the physics department's annual bridge building contest in quest of the answer.

Greg Rose won. His bridge stayed intact under 300 pounds.

No Progress at All Seen in Paris Talks

PARIS (AP) — The United States said today that a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war "seems no nearer today than it did a year ago, or even two years ago" when the Paris peace talks began.

Ambassador David K. E. Bruce appealed to the Communist side to "work together now to prevent 1971 from being added to the already far too long and dreary chronicle of this war."

"Let us instead make it a year which will be recorded prominently in the annals of peace," he continued.

Bruce spoke at the 97th session of the peace talks, which began in their present form Jan. 18, 1969.

Bruce made a detailed presentation of allied efforts to get substantive progress in Paris and put the blame on the Communist side for lack of progress.

Opportunity Lost
"The opportunity to make the year when peace finally returned to all of Indochina has been lost," he said.

Communist delegates listed again their conditions for an end to the war and put the blame on the United States for hampering the return of peace.

Before entering the conference hall, however, Xuan Thuy, the North Vietnamese chief delegate, expressed the hope the new year would bring increasing "solidarity between the French and Vietnamese people and the American and Vietnamese people."

Bruce recalled U.S. proposals for standstill cease-fire, withdrawal of American and North Vietnamese forces, and for a potential solution reflecting "the existing relationship of political forces in South Vietnam."

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong delegates restated their demands for U.S. troop withdrawal before June 30, 1971, a cease-fire, overthrow of the leaders of the present Saigon regime, a coalition government and elections.

Ambassador Pham Dang Lam, head of the South Vietnamese delegation, said: "It is as clear as daylight that what you are seeking is simply to bring us to make unilateral concessions, not in the interest of peace, but solely to give satisfaction to your demands."

Israel 'Ready to Listen:' Mrs. Meir

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Israeli Premier Golda Meir says her government will not make peace with the Arabs unless it gets "defensible" frontiers and retains control of united Jerusalem.

But she also said Tuesday that Israel, bolstered by new support from the United States, is re-entering the peace negotiations at the United Nations "ready not only to present our position but also to listen."

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, speaking in Cairo, lauded Israel's decision to return to the peace talks as a "maneuver" and ordered his country to get ready for deep Israeli raids after the Middle East cease-fire expires Feb. 5.

He gave virtual assurance that Egypt will not agree to extension of the cease-fire without a timetable for Israeli withdrawal from territories occupied in the June 1967 war.

Sadat spoke at a closed meeting of the Arab Socialist Union, Egypt's only political party. Cairo newspapers reported the speech.

Mrs. Meir spoke before the Knesset, Israel's parliament, after it voted 77-27 and with 9 abstentions to rejoin the negotiations with U.N. mediator Gunnar Jarring as the go-between. Israel withdrew from the talks Sept. 6, before they really got started, charging that Egypt had violated the cease-fire by moving anti-aircraft missiles closer to the Suez Canal.

Against Fighting
Mrs. Meir urged Egypt to agree to an extension of the cease-fire and warned Cairo against any renewal of the fighting. She added that recent contacts with Washington have shown increased U.S. support for Israel's refusal to withdraw from the occupied territories until binding peace agreements are reached.

"There can be no doubt regarding our position that no guarantees can replace secure, defensible boundaries and the maintenance of our capacity to defend ourselves," she said.

She reiterated Israel's rejection of U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers' call for Israel to agree to only minor changes in the borders it had before the 1967 war. Israel's decision to return to the peace negotiations does not include any commitment to agree to the Rogers proposals or any other plan, she said.

Reached Stage
Sadat said Egypt's armed forces are "now stronger than ever before" and "we have reached the stage where we can say, 'No, we shall not extend the cease-fire.'"

He told the governors of Egypt's provinces to "mobilize all potentials" and "get ready for battle" with the expectation that Israel will resort to large-scale raids deep into Egypt.

"Every one of us should be on the battlefield within two weeks because the enemy—knowing he cannot repeat June 5, 1967, against our army—will concentrate on the internal front," Sadat said.

Sadat said Egypt accepted the first extension of the cease-fire "because we felt the world wanted us to . . . but this time it is clear America and Israel are maneuvering."

Some Logic
"America will find some logic in demanding another extension," he said, "on the basis of Israel's return to the Jarring talks, but we know this will be a dilatory tactic and they do not intend to implement the November U.N. resolution."

He was referring to the U.N. Security Council resolution of November 1967, which called for a peace settlement including Israeli withdrawal from the occupied territories and Arab recognition of Israel's right to exist as a state within secure boundaries.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told a news conference today that "such talk of stopping the cease-fire is irresponsible—these speeches are not elements which generate negotiating atmosphere."

If the Egyptian threats are intended to intimidate Israel, he said, "then our flesh must visibly refuse to creep."

Waterway Patrols Now Job of Saigon

SAIGON (AP) — The United States closed out its last coastal and inland waterway operations today by turning them over to the Vietnamese Navy. Two U.S. Navy over 125 more patrol boats to combat aircraft units—a helicopter gunship squadron and a showed increased U.S. support for Israel's refusal to withdraw from the occupied territories until binding peace agreements are reached.

The transfer raised South Vietnam's naval strength to 1,500 vessels, the largest of them being several 316-foot LSTs.

Combat Role
The ceremony marked the end of an important phase of the U.S. combat role in Vietnam, inshore naval patrols along the coast and on the rivers and canals which have been in operation since 1965. The so-called "brown water navy" was the U.S. Navy's first river combat force since the Civil War. A few U.S. naval advisers will remain on duty with the Vietnamese Navy. Two U.S. Navy boats, 224 river assault craft, 107 "Swift" boats for river patrols and 26 Coast Guard craft. At peak strength in 1966, the Navy had 36,000 men in South Vietnam, but this has been reduced to 17,000, not including the 19,000 Navy and Coast Guard personnel assigned to offshore units.

Space Matter Contains Needed Elements

Dirty Ice Tested as Possible Originator of Life

CHICAGO (AP) — Pioneering experiments suggest that living creatures on earth—and conceivably elsewhere in the universe—in effect evolved from chips of the "dirty ice" of interstellar space, a New York scientist reported today.

"Dirty ice" is the pet name given by space scientists to super-cold grains of solid matter suspended in the thin gases that pervade the space between the stars.

Known to play an important role in the condensation processes leading to the formation of the stars and planets, the pip-squeak dirty ice particles are believed by some scientists to consist mainly of frozen water, methane and ammonia. Their "dirtiness" comes from a small admixture of heavier elements such as iron.

Life Chemicals
Dr. J. Mayo Greenberg of the State University of New York at Albany said there's at least suggestive, new evidence that the heavenly grains may be potential yielders of some of the basic chemicals of life itself.

In a report prepared for the closing session of the American Association for the Advancement of Science's 137th meeting and amplified at a news conference he gave this account:

In the world's first experiment of its kind, Greenberg and several space-science colleagues reproduced a laboratory version of dirty ice by deep-freezing a mixture of water, ammonia and methane at nearly 300 degrees below zero.

Then they bombarded the dirty ice with ultraviolet radiation to further simulate space conditions.

Finally, they evaporated the mixture, studied the resultant gases with a spectroscope—and found a variety of complex organic molecules, "resembling those of biological interest."

Most exciting, said Greenberg, one of the molecules close-

Measure Keeps Combat Troops From Being Sent Into Thailand, Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Cap-actions required to insure the safe and orderly withdrawal or disengagement of U.S. forces from Southeast Asia or to aid in the release of Americans held as prisoners of war."

Sen. Allen Ellender, D-La., acting chairman of the Appropriations Committee, said "it is certainly not the intent" of this provision to give the executive branch "authority for a large-scale invasion by South Vietnamese or other free world forces . . . of North Vietnam, Laos, Cambodia or any other country."

The House passed the bill earlier in the day 234 to 18, and President Nixon is expected to sign it later in the week.

Together with two other bills—the $19.9 billion military procurement authorization bill and a supplementary foreign aid measure containing $255 million for Cambodia—the action eliminated one major area that had threatened to delay adjournment of the 91st Congress.

Senate war critics held up a previous version of the defense spending bill because of a loophole in the ban on U.S. combat ground troops.

They permitted action on the defense appropriation legislation after receiving assurances it would not authorize a South Vietnamese invasion of North Vietnam to free U.S. prisoners.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, a leader of the long fight against American ground combat troops fighting outside Vietnam, hailed the action as "an historic moment."

The Idaho Democrat called it "the largest step yet taken in the restoration of the Senate's role under the Constitution to participate responsibly in the limiting of the American role abroad."

The three sections of the final package include:

—The ban on U.S. combat ground troops in Laos and Thailand, first passed in last year's defense money bill, renewed in the present legislation.

—A comprehensive provision restricting U.S. activities in Cambodia, including a ban on ground combat troops and military advisers, a statement that U.S. aid does not mean a U.S. commitment to defend Cambodia, and a requirement for advance notice to Congress of future aid transfers to Cambodia. This was passed in the aid bill authorizing the $255 million for Cambodia.

—Limitations on U.S. assistance to Vietnamese and other nations such as Thailand and Korea, prohibiting funds to them to provide military support and assistance to the governments of Laos and Cambodia.

It is to the latter provision that the House and Senate agreed Tuesday to attach language in this section shall be construed to prohibit support of

Nixon Undergoes His Yearly Physical Test

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon went to the Naval Hospital in suburban Bethesda, Md., today for what was described as a routine annual physical checkup.

Accompanied by his personal physician, Air Force Brig. Gen. Walter R. Tkach, Nixon flew in a helicopter to the hospital for two hours of tests.

Nixon last had a complete physical examination at the same hospital on Nov. 10, 1969, a gauge stating "nothing con-

Inductee Learns Daylight Saving Time Legitimate

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — A young Delaware man has lost a court battle against daylight saving time in an attempt to avoid induction into the Army by having his birthdate changed.

Records show that Charles W. Brinton, 22, of Harmony Crest, was born at 12:03 a.m. daylight saving time on Aug. 12, 1948. He petitioned Superior Court to change the time to 11:03 p.m. eastern standard time on Aug. 11.

Brinton said in his petition that, under the Selective Service lottery, he has been ordered to report for induction today because of an "erroneous" assumption he was born on Aug. 12.

Judge William T. Quillan ruled there was no proof of Brinton's contention that "by law, custom and usage, the standard for determining the time and date for all occurrences and events for official purposes in the state of Delaware is eastern standard time."

Gov. Knowles Denies Pardon For Ex-official

Former Town Head's Probation Is Given As Reason for 'No'

MADISON — Gov. Warren Knowles Tuesday denied a plea for clemency by Norris C. Adams, former chairman of the Town of Townsend in Oconto County, who was convicted in July, 1969, of theft and forgery.

The governor, according to his pardon counsel, Richard Malmgren, based his denial on two factors.

Malmgren said the governor, considered the application for pardon premature since Adams is still on probation. Adams was placed on two years probation that will expire July, 1971, and was fined $600 by Circuit Judge Robert Parins of Green Bay.

The governor "desired a greater demonstration of complete rehabilitation because of the public trust Mr. Adams held in his official position," Malmgren said.

The charges against Adams arose out of a 1964 civil action started by a taxpayers group in the town in which Adams was ordered to pay back $7,765 to the town.

The former town chairman was accused of misusing public funds in 1964, and in 1969 a grand jury indicted the resort operator on three counts of perjury, two counts of solicitation of perjury, six counts of theft and four counts of altering public records. The perjury charges were dropped and Adams pleaded no contest to the other charges for which he was convicted.

Knowles denied the plea for clemency as he reviewed a number of appeals for pardons during his last week of office. The remainder of the rulings, that may include some grants of pardons, will be announced Thursday.

In testimony at a clemency hearing earlier this month, James H. Plier, Adams' attorney, said that Adams had "more than fully paid back his civil responsibility."

Adams said in the hearing before Malmgren that he realized the seriousness of the crimes of which he was guilty but believed he has paid his debt to society and should have his civil rights restored.

He told the hearing he sought the pardon on the advice of his son as a means of ending the stigma that resulted from the conviction.

Malmgren said that Plier had been notified of the ruling.

No Problems Seen

Clintonville Landfill Ready to Comply With State Orders

CLINTONVILLE — City officials said today that they would have little problem complying with a state order to convert totally to sanitary landfill disposal because the city is almost converted now.

"We'll be complying," said Mayor Frank Sinkewicz. "I'm sure that it will be very soon. We've been complying in large part."

The city has been converting from opening burning to the daily burying, no-burning landfill process for a year, he said, and several months ago, equipment was purchased and daily covering of garbage was started.

Discussion Set

Leon Steenbock, chairman of the city's board of public works, said he has the state order with the six items listed. The only two the city hasn't really complied with are constructing a fence around the landfill and hiring a full-time attendant for the site.

Both items will be discussed next week at a board of public works meeting, he said.

Clintonville operation was one of nine public and private solid waste disposal sites ordered by the State Department of Natural Resources (DNR) to either close immediately or comply with Wisconsin regulations to reduce nuisance conditions.

The orders, designed to control specific operations, included the Town of Grand Chute in Outagamie County, five other towns in Wisconsin and private firms in De Pere and Oak Creek.

Clintonville's order specified that it stop burning, compact garbage and rubbish and cover it daily, hire a full-time nearby area, and to prevent the wind from blowing materials around.

Steenbock said that the board of public works would discuss each item, but that only the fence and full-time attendant had been neglected in the conversion. The city advertised for fence bids but received none and has a part-time attendant now, he said.

He also noted that the city was burning brush once a week at the site.

The order contended the city wasn't compacting or covering, he said, but since the inspection by the state last Oct. 14, the city has complied with that.

Steenbock said that the city may have to ask for a delay in the fencing since the ground may be too hard to sink poles during the winter months.

Sinkewicz said that the city wrote the DNR about a month ago and indicated it would comply. The only response has been the order which was received several days ago, he said.

The city's landfill is on the 640-acre airport site, and there is enough land there to handle city disposal needs for many years, Sinkewicz said. Only the city deposits there, he added.

The state has cracked down in the last several months on open burning, which was outlawed last July 1. The landfill is the most common alternative, although incineration, or controlled burning, also can be approved.

told the court Guyette was later remorseful for the act which he called "very bad and potentially very dangerous." Guyette recognizes this now, he said.

Guyette held the two policemen at gunpoint with a loaded, cocked shotgun, outside the home at 3129 N. Lawe St. where his estranged wife, Deanna, 27, lives. He had followed her there, at 3129 N. Lawe St. while she was escorted home by squad car from The Ultimate, 1101 W. Wisconsin Ave.

Police had gone to the tavern about 12:30 a.m., on a report that Guyette would not allow Deanna to leave. Deanna objected to his plans to take her home because she held legal court documents banning him from the premises.

No one was hurt in the incident, which ended at Wisconsin Avenue and Oneida Street where a police roadblock stopped Guyette who had ordered his estranged wife into his auto and then driven off.

Concerning the membership announced so far for the new committee, Beyer said, "It's great as far as I'm concerned."

He also noted that the labor, taxation, insurance and banking committee handled much of the urban affairs legislation presented to the Senate in its last session, and Lorge is chairman of that committee.

In announcing formation of the new body, Lorge said, "Creation of the committee is in response to the marked increase during the 1969 Wisconsin legislative session of bills dealing with the problems of urban areas."

"The problems of our urban areas cannot be separated from the problems of the state. We

Rising Costs Necessitate Move

New London Hospital Sets Increase in All Room Rates

NEW LONDON—A $5 per day increase in all room rates at Community Hospital has been approved by the governing board to become effective Jan. 1.

The increase was made necessary by the rising costs of medical care — both in salaries and in supplies and equipment, according to Otto Cox, hospital administrator.

Plan New Equipment The new rates will be: Private accommodations with bath, $36; semiprivate room with bath, $33; ward accommodations, $28; and nursery $20.

At the present time the hospital employs 146 people and has an average semi-monthly payroll of $24,600.

Salaries account for about 70.9 per cent of the dollar expenditure in the hospital. The remaining 29.1 per cent goes for equipment, maintenance and necessary supplies.

During 1971, the hospital will make a $60,000 investment in air conditioning and humidity control in the surgical and obstetrical suite, and will install new surgical lights.

Contributing to the necessity for the increase, the governing board said, has been a decrease in the number of patient days and shorter average length of hospitalization for the patient.

Shorter Stays

Cox noted that the average patient now stayed in the hospital for 6 days, compared to 7.4 days a few months ago. "I think our physicians should be given some credit for this," he noted "since they are contributing to a savings for the patient by preparing him to leave the hospital sooner."

The loss of two physicians in the area also has contributed to the decrease in the number of patient days in the hospital. Cox explained that local physicians already had been working at maximum loads, and were unable to take on many of the patients of the other doctors.

Cox noted that efforts were being made by several interested groups to gain more medical help for the community. He pointed out that there was a need for the physicians, and that the hospital was co-operating in the drive to recruit doctors.

A Red Cross spokesman said there also is a need for the smaller household items like lamps, smaller tables, rugs and carpets.

David Van Eyck, 20 of 1627 W. Summer St., pleaded innocent to a theft charge Tuesday before Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer, who set a jury trial for Jan. 27, after a preliminary hearing was waived.

Authorities allege that Van Eyck stole a garden tractor worth $1,700 from the front lawn of David Nelson, route 2, Shiocton, last May 27 and that he, and other members of the ring sold the machine several days later to a Waukesha County man and divided the proceeds of the sale.

Van Eyck was taken into custody at the Shawano County jail Thursday, where he had been confined for an alleged offense in that county. He is free on bond.

Another Appleton man, presently held in the Shawano County jail, is also, believed to have had a part in the ring.

Jerome Baier, 35, formerly of 1350 Manitowoc Road, Menasha, was sentenced to seven years at Waupun State prison Nov. 19, for a series of 21 felonies dating to March of 1968. As a member of the ring, authorities said, thefts and burglaries occurred in 11 Wisconsin Counties, including Outagamie.

Donald Johnson, 31, of 2114 E. Esther St., was placed on three years' probation Nov. 19 after he cooperated with police in exposing the ring. He had been serving a three-year prison sentence for theft.

created post of county executive.

Woehler, 57 of 320 Park Ridge Ave., joins Appleton Mayor George Buckley and Kimberly Public Works Director Patrick Flanagan as candidates for the $18,500 a year job to be filled by election in April.

A March primary election will be necessary if three or more candidates file their nomination papers. Buckley took out his nomination papers from the county clerk's office Tuesday. More candidates for the new post are expected to announce next month.

Woehler, an Appleton native, has worked for Outagamie County 7½ years, starting in August 1963 as the county's first executive secretary. In that capacity, his duties have included that of auditor and secretary to the county board.

Named to New Post

Last January the county board, by a 34-9 vote, named him to the new post of county administrator.

Before being hired by Outagamie County, Woehler was associated for five years with an Appleton auditing firm that serviced the county.

His other jobs have included that of an agent for the Internal Revenue Service, office manager and controller at a Mensha paper firm and public accountant.

He attended Lawrence University, completed contract negotiation courses at Duke University and attended management seminars at the University of Wisconsin. Woehler served 4½ years in Army Ordnance.

In a prepared statement, Woehler said: The electorate by referendum and the county board by resolution established (the office of county executive), thereby separating the administrative from the legislative functions of county government in Outagamie County.

Local Level

"By identifying the administrative branch of our county government, it shall become an important tool for an effective and representative operation at the local level.

"I believe it is the responsibility of an able and informed executive to lay before his board the initial plans for progress and the foundations for changes in policy when such is indicated. He must have tact and patience with perseverance. He must have education and experience to work with the board of supervisors, trustees, committees, citizens groups and employees of the county.

"The county executive must have sufficient qualifications to assure the electorate that they will receive from him maximum respect for his office and its responsibilities; and, to have the professional ability to perform the numerous administrative duties required, including sound budgetary programming, without the need of excessive staffing at a time when sound economy must be observed.

"In a sense, it is significant that we look upon the county as both an old and new entity. Recent years have drastically altered the framework and the relationship of the various levels of government. It is therefore necessary that we are aware of the many transitional steps to reach our objectives.

"Our county now finds it necessary to adapt itself, and build into its operations, within the present restrictions set up in the constitution and state statutes, a type of flexibility which can make it more readily responsive to modern needs."

Woehler is married and has one son.

Fall in Shower Is Fatal to Rural Fremont Man

FREMONT — Adrian Van Lyssel, 52, route 1, died Tuesday morning after an artery was severed when he slipped in the shower and thrust his arm through the glass shower door.

Winnebago County Coroner Art C. Miller said that Van Lyssel was dead on arrival at Waupaca Riverside Hospital. He died of a loss of blood, he said.

Funeral services are set at 9:30 a.m. Saturday at St. Peter and Paul Catholic Church, Weyauwega. Lewin Funeral Home, Fremont, is handling arrangements.

Survived by his widow, five sons and four daughters, Van Lyssel lived at the rural Fremont address for six years. He was employed by an Appleton trucking firm for 21 years.

Also to be installed as messengers are Faye Yenchesky, Bonnie Fuchs and Linda Bertram, all of Marion; Susan Schwan and Linda Schwan, both of Hortonville. Also to be installed are Judy Christiansen, Marion, senior custodian; Carlene Brown, New London, junior custodian; Sarah Moreland, inner guard, and Mary Henschel, Marion, outer guard.

Miss Moreland is the retiring honored queen.

Duane Cismoski will serve as musician and accompany Jane Werner, soloist.

Students would have to sign the affidavit as a condition for admission. Faculty members and teaching assistants would have to sign as a condition for being paid.

"I feel that by tightening University admission by such a small degree, the core of troublemakers will be excluded from the campus," Hephner said.

His bill, which he said he has received in final draft form, also codifies existing practices of the boards of regents of the University of Wisconsin and the State University System, requiring them to publish and distribute to students rules of conduct and schedules of penalties.

Man Jailed For Huber Law Offense

A Huber Law prisoner who failed to return to the Outagamie County jail the evening of Dec. 19 from work was sentenced to four months in jail Tuesday without the privilege.

Richard Geborek, 21, formerly of 121 N. Drew St., pleaded guilty to the escape from custody charge. He had turned himself in to police in Highland Park, Ill. on Dec. 20.

Schaefer imposed the four-month term, which he had previously withheld for a charge of petty theft in March of this year. Probation had been granted instead at that time.

Schaefer directed that the same sentence of four months be served for the escape charge this morning, but it will be served concurrently with a present jail term for another offense.

Tax Notices To be Mailed

New London Holds Bills for Payment Before January 1

NEW LONDON — Local residents will not get their tax bills in the mail, until after the start of the new year. However, they can go to the city treasurer's office and pay taxes before the end of 1970.

City Treasurer George Groher explained why the bills had not been mailed: "We probably could have crammed the bills in the mail before the first of the year, but there are a lot of people who like to pay before the first. If the bills are in the mail, we wouldn't be able to handle them very well."

The treasurer's office will mail about 2,200 bills this year. In return it will receive revenues of $919,283.06 from Waupaca County, and $337,229.45 from Outagamie County.

These figures will include the school taxes, state, county, and city. The proper amounts are then sent to the various agencies.

Job's Daughters Plan Installation Saturday Night

CLINTONVILLE — Job's Daughters will install officers at 8 p.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple.

Carol Bate, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Bate, route 3, will be installed as honored queen. Other Officers to be installed are Vickie Kafka, senior princess; Mary Schultz, junior princess; Debbie Wiese, guide; Debbie Bridges, New London, marshal; Sue White, chaplain; Janet Gretzinger, New London, recorder; Sarah Smith, treasurer; Terry Henschel, Marion, musician, and Mary Blissett, New London, librarian.

To be installed as messengers are Faye Yenchesky, Bonnie Fuchs and Linda Bertram, all of Marion; Susan Schwan and Linda Schwan, both of Hortonville. Also to be installed are Judy Christiansen, Marion, senior custodian; Carlene Brown, New London, junior custodian; Sarah Moreland, inner guard, and Mary Henschel, Marion, outer guard.

Miss Moreland is the retiring honored queen.

Area Churches

New Year's Services Set

New Year's Eve and Day services have been announced by churches in Appleton, Sherwood, Greenville, Stephenville, and Center.

Special services for Lutheran churches in Appleton are:

— Faith, 7 p.m. with communion and 11 p.m. contemporary eve folk service, led by young people, and 9:30 a.m. Day service, with the Rev. Carl Audemerge, Kaukauna, as guest speaker.

— First English, 7 p.m. with communion on the Eve, and 10 a.m. Friday. There will be a 7 p.m. service Saturday; 8 and 10:45 a.m. Sunday and installation of the church council at the latter service.

— Trinity, 6:30 p.m. folk service on the Eve.

— Bethany, 7:30 p.m. Eve and 9 a.m. Day.

— St. Matthew, 7 p.m. Eve and 9:15 a.m. Day, both with communion.

— Mt. Olive, 7 p.m. Eve with communion and 9 a.m. Day.

— Grace, 7 p.m. Eve with communion.

Watchnight Service
First Congregational United Church of Christ will have a watchnight service at 8 p.m.

The Christian and Missionary Alliance Church has scheduled two films for the watchnight service, beginning at 9 p.m.

One is "The Gospel Blimp," a comedy about a group of enthusiastic but somewhat misguided church people who set out to take the Gospel to the people of their town through the use of a blimp. The other film is entitled, "Impact of Archaeology," demonstrating the accuracy of the Old Testament, as verified through discoveries.

At Sherwood, the masses at Sacred Heart Church will be at 6:30 and 8 p.m. on the Eve and at 8 and 11 a.m. Friday. The evening masses fulfill the New Year's day obligations.

Greenville Area
Greenville area services are as follows:

— St. Mary Catholic, 8 p.m. mass Thursday and 9 and 11 a.m. Friday.

— Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran, 7:00 p.m. Eve and 9:20 a.m. Day services.

— St. John Lutheran, 7:00 p.m. Eve and 9:20 a.m. Day.

— St. Patrick Catholic, Stephenville, 8 and 10 a.m. masses New Year's Day.

— Trinity Lutheran, town of Ellington, 8 p.m. communion on the Eve.

— St. Paul Lutheran, Stephenville, 9 a.m. Friday communion service Friday.

— United Methodist Church, Greenville, 8 p.m. on the Eve at Faith Community and 11 p.m. with communion for both the Greenville and Emmanuel (Center) congregations at Faith.

— Immanuel Evangelical Lutheran, Clayton, 9:15 a.m. services Friday.

Hoolihan to Seek 3rd Council Term

Outagamie County Clerk Arthur Hoolihan said Tuesday he will seek a third two-year term as Appleton's 11th Ward alderman.

Aldermen will be elected in second year to Robert E. Squires, 917 S. Bridge St.

Honorable mention went to Edward Jones, 324 E. 4th St., on the City Council's Public Safety Committee and on the St. Building Inspection Board. He lives at 1302 S. Harmon St.

In January, Hoolihan will begin serving his second two-year term as county clerk. He had served several terms as a county board supervisor before winning Herbert directed the contest.

Council Action

Pay Hikes Granted Seymour Employees

SEYMOUR — The City Council Monday night granted pay raises for all municipal officials and employees.

Regular city employees will receive an hourly increase of 60 cents, from $2.30 to $2.90; a two week vacation after three years, and a week sick leave. The previous contract set the vacation after five years experience. They will work 49 hours before collecting overtime.

Part time employees wages went from $1.79 to $2 an hour.

Public Works Director

Earl Gosse, public works director, was raised by the city from $4,400 to $4,600, with a salary increase from the state utility rebate from $5,100 to $5,375 for a total of $9,975.

Sewage disposal operator Orlin Bishop, who has completed his six month probationary period, will receive $7,500, a $500 raise.

The police department will work a 48 hour week with a seven day paid vacation and two weeks vacation after three years. The city will pay retirement benefits and $100 a year allowance for uniforms. The chief will go from $680 to $715 a month; the assistant chief from $570 to $589 and the patrolman, still on probation until March, from $555 to $577.

Patrolman Wages
Part time policemen wages will be $2.50 an hour, a 25 cent increase, with a $50 a year uniform allowance.

The police radio operator goes from $7 a day to $7.25 and the school patrol will stay at $2.150.

The city clerk's salary was increased from $2,250 to $2,450, with the state utility rebate at $2,550 a year for a total of $4,900. The deputy clerk will get $1.85 an hour, from $1.75.

In other action, the council adopted a snowmobile ordinance, setting a 15 mile per hour speed limit within the city limits and prohibiting operation from 11 p.m. to 7 a.m. Snowmobile operators are restricted from using private property without the owner's permission, from leaving unattended vehicles on public property, and from running the machines on sidewalks, public rights of way, the park, skating rinks, school grounds or the public lake.

Fines for first offenses were set at $10 to $25, with fines of $25 to $50 for subsequent violations.

W-B Cagers Win Easily Over Bowler

WITTENBERG — The Wittenberg-Birmamwood Chargers, led by 6-7 center Harold Mavis, who poured in 25 points and grabbed 11 rebounds, crushed the Bowler Panthers, 80-55, in a non-conference basketball game Tuesday night.

The Chargers caught fire late in the first frame to take a commanding 19-10 advantage and moved on in the second frame outscoring Bowler, 19-15, to take a 38-25 half time margin.

In the third period Wittenberg bounced out to a 58-31 lead, sinking eight of 17 shots from the floor while the Panthers managed only to net two of 20.

Assisting Mavis were, Bob Schmidt netting 16 points, Mike Kaufmann dumping in 14, and Dale Hartleben adding 11. Wittenberg sank 29 of 64 shots from the field for 45 per cent while Bowler made 16 of 63 for 25 per cent. Wittenberg's overall state is now 6-2.

Bowler was led by Rick Treptow (16) and Brei tossed (15).

WITTENBERG (19 19 20 22 80) Bowler (14 14 14 17 59) Mavis 12 13, Burke 10 11, Hartleben 3 8 1, Schmidt 6 4 3, Pavlichuk 0 1 2, Niemi 1 0 3. Totals 29 22 31 FTM — 13.

BOWLER (10 15 6 24 55) Brady 2 2 4, Heim 0 10, Kolack 2 3 5, Treptow 5 6 3, Kauksort 1 0 3, Bra 6 3 1, Cassella 1 1 1, Feits 1 5 5. Totals 16 19 22 FTM — 14.

Clintonville Man Seeks Judgeship

WAUPACA — A Waupaca County attorney, A. Don Zwickey, Clintonville, has announced that he is a candidate for judge of County Court Branch 1. The election, held in April, will determine the successor to Judge Wendell McHenry, who will reach mandatory retirement age.

Zwickey has practiced law in Clintonville since his graduation from the University of Wisconsin Law School 36 years ago. He has been Circuit Court commissioner of Waupaca County for the past 21 years, and he has served on the Bar Association's committees on admissions to the Bar Administration of Justice.

The lawyer also has served as Clintonville city attorney and as a special legal counsel for various town and village boards and school districts.

Top Displays Are Announced for Manawa Contest

MANAWA — Judging of the outdoor, residential lighting displays was conducted recently under the sponsorship of the Gracious Gardeners of Manawa.

Cash prizes of $7.50 for first and $5 for second were awarded in each of two categories.

Winners in the religious category for first place was Leonard Goolz, 621 S. Bridge St., and in second, Jerry Simons, 181 N. Schoenrock for the luncheon and a short program.

Guests of the club were Mrs. Edith Reyberg, Mrs. Cary Kuehlman, and Mrs. Ervin Herbert.

The club has accepted an invitation to visit the home of Mrs. Herbert, Manawa, next week.

Luncheon Held By Garden Club

NEW LONDON — An afternoon luncheon highlighted the meeting of the Wolf River Garden Club Monday.

Members of the club met at the home of Mrs. Walter Schoenrock for the luncheon and a short program.

Guests of the club were Mrs. Edith Reyberg, Mrs. Cary Kuehlman, and Mrs. Ervin Herbert.

The club has accepted an invitation to visit the home of Mrs. Herbert, Manawa, next week.

Judges from the Clintonville, Flower and Garden Club included Mrs. Edward Mitchell, Mrs. Harold Danner, and Mrs. Herbert Lichtenberg. Mrs. Er-county board supervisor before winning Herbert directed the contest.

Police & Fire Beat

NEW LONDON — A car driven by Robert S. Hauk Jr., 1102½ Division St., struck a tree at about 1:22 p.m. Monday as he was attempting to make a right turn onto Quincy Street from Mill Street. Damage was extensive.

Cars driven by Myra Vandenhuevel, 67, route 3, Seymour, and Caroline E. Meshke, 46, of 912 Smith St., New London, collided at Lawrence and Quincy Streets, at about 2 p.m., Monday.

CLINTONVILLE — Damage was estimated at $110 to one of the two vehicles involved in an accident at 1:35 p.m. Monday on S. Madison Street, south of E. Madison Street, according to the report of the city police.

Larry Dean, 19, of 1625½ N. Richmond St., Appleton, backed out of a driveway and struck a parked car being operated by Rodney Reinke, 17, of 38 18th St., Clintonville.

WAUPACA — Carlton C. Toliver, 33, of 244 E. Prairie St., Wautoma, pleaded guilty to operating an automobile while under the influence of an intoxicant, Tuesday, in a second appearance before Judge Nathan Wiese, County Court Branch 2.

He was fined $201 and $9 cost and his operator's license was revoked for six months.

In his initial appearance before Judge Wiese on Dec. 22, Toliver pleaded innocent to the charge and trial was set for Dec. 29.

County Health Unit to Charge Rental Fees

WAUPACA — Effective Jan. 1 there will be a nominal rental fee for rehabilitation equipment from the Waupaca County Health Service loan closet.

"All equipment is loaned to a patient upon written order of a physician," Mrs. DuWayne Tanner, county nurse, explained today in making the new policy. "Because this equipment is in constant need of repair and replacement, it is necessary that rental fees be established."

Patients on Medicare or Medicaid can be reimbursed for the fee if they submit a claim form.

The following monthly fees will be charged: hospital bed, $4; mattress, $2; plastic mattress covers which become the patient's property, a $2 delivery charge; regular wheelchair, $5; extended leg wheelchair, $6; walkerette, $2; commode, $3; Hoyer lifter, $5 and toilet frame, $2.50.

Minor sick room supplies will be furnished free of charge.

Allende 'Wants' Good Relations'

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Cyrus Eaton, 87-year-old Ohio industrialist, says Salvador Allende, Chile's new Marxist president, wants to have good relations with the United States "and all the countries of the world."

Eaton talked with newsmen Monday after an interview with Allende lasting about an hour.

"I think he is a forceful man," Eaton said. "I think he is a straightforward man." He counseled the U.S. government, not to take an aggressive attitude toward the Allende regime.

Waupaca County's Probation Officer Is Speaker for Rotary

CLINTONVILLE — Joe Eich, Waupaca County probation and parole officer, was the guest speaker Monday noon at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary club at the Hotel Marson.

Eich talked of methods used in the correctional institutions in preparing and assisting people for a new way of life, and who are given vocational training to help them find work when released.

Questions Arise

Waupaca Residents Get Tax Statements

WAUPACA — City property owners have received their tax statements, and a number of them have made their way to the office of City Assessor Gerald Schultz to question the increase in land valuation.

There also were telephone calls to the office of city clerk-treasurer to see if the taxes were based on the approved 56.5 mill rate for 1971.

"This year the mill rate is not shown on the tax statement," explains Mrs. Harriett Ward, city clerk-treasurer. "The computation is made at the new mill rate, however, of 56.5."

Mrs. Ward also warns that this year, with the tax statements made up on the computer, a service leased by the Waupaca County Clerk's Office, there are no duplicate statements available.

The original tax statement should be brought in when paying the tax in person, or it should be mailed with the check.

All personal property and real estate taxes must be paid in full by Feb. 28. Or, if the property owner wishes to divide the year's taxes in two equal payments, the first installment must be paid on or before Jan. 31 and the second payment is due on or before July 31.

Think of your money as fuel. Like the gasoline in your car. Burn it up and you pay the penalties of too much borrowing or credit buying. You run out of money before you can reach the goals you've set for you and your family. You're nowhere.

Or you save some of this precious fuel. And go practically anywhere. Reach any destination—a new car, a college education, a comfortable retirement . . . or just the great feeling that you can do what you want, when you want.

Can saving replace credit for getting things "right away"? Credit buying is here to stay. By striking a balance between charging and saving, we'll show you how you can get more things, faster. Without running out of money. We can show you how to save $4,500 in a couple of years. Then, by paying cash for a $3,600 car instead of buying it on credit, you'll save about $900. You could put some of that money into a new color TV or new range . . . have it "right away" . . . and still have money left in your savings account.

Isn't saving for rich people? Believe it or not, people with average incomes often have larger than average savings. It takes planning, of course. And regular saving. But with the savings plans available, you can have a personalized savings investment plan no matter how much you can save. Especially at First Federal. We have the largest selection of savings plans in Wisconsin.

Don't run out of money.

Isn't there a big difference in savings insurance? Speaking for ourselves, accounts are insured up to $20,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation—the same insurance limits as the banks.

Isn't saving strictly for emergencies? Not anymore. People used to save for "rainy days". Now they're saving for the sunny ones, too. Savings are investments. A very safe investment for a very high return.

Aren't interest rates all the same? No, we're happy to say. We pay higher rates of interest than other kinds of savings places. You might say that we give you more mileage for your savings dollars.

Isn't my money tied up if I save it? Some people think that putting money into a savings account is like putting it under lock and key—and throwing away the key. Not so. At First Federal, your money is always available.

Aren't savings places all alike? No. Consider us. Where saving is concerned, we're something special. And you're just as special to us.

We've specialized in just two services for decades. Home and savings investments. We have more people specializing in savings than anyone else. More savings plans. That's probably why we're the largest savings and loan in Wisconsin with more depositors than any place of our kind.

Don't run out of money. Move your money to First Federal. Where saving is something special.

Where saving is something special.

Moynihhan's Farewell Address

The farewell speech of Daniel Patrick Moynihan to other members of the Nixon Administration was an emotional and certainly we believe a sincere defense of the first two years of President Nixon's tenure in the highest office of the land. But we suspect there were some self-serving aspects about it that Mr. Moynihan, a dedicated public servant, did not realize. And this, too, is understandable; it is difficult to take an objective stand on anything when one is in the middle of it.

Mr. Moynihan pointed to what he believes to be the achievements of the last two years. "In foreign affairs the nation has asserted the limits of its power and its purpose. We have begun to dismantle the elaborate constructs of myth and reality associated with the cold war."

Have we? Is that what the expansion of the war into Cambodia and the resumption, on a limited basis, of bombing in North Vietnam, the widespread bombing in Laos, the demand for more AEM sites and MIRV deployments have meant? Moynihan is quite right in that to some extent at least the war in Asia has receded but the noises from the Pentagon hardly lend credence to the belief that this will necessarily continue.

Moynihan emphasized that domestically the President has "moved swiftly to endorse the profoundly important but fundamentally unfulfilled commitments, especially to the poor and oppressed, which the nation has made in the 1960's." The President has presented a Family Assistance program, bogged down in Congress. But what about — to use Moynihan's unfortunate phrase — that period of "benign neglect" — to which we are to turn. The oil fires still burn in the Gulf of Mexico, the really dedicated to pollution controls resign or are fired, black leaders and educators have expressed disillusion.

Mr. Moynihan is quite right when he says that "mass urban violence has all but disappeared. Civil disobedience and protest have receded. Racial rhetoric has calmed." But was this because of, in spite of, or regardless of the current Administration? We are inclined to think it the latter.

But more seriously, Mr. Moynihan now claims that "the great symbol of racial subjugation, the dual school system of the South, virtually intact two years ago, has quietly and finally been dismantled." This is pure nonsense. The integration now is considered that of a system, not of a school, and there is a mighty big difference. Whichever system is better for the children — and there can be honest dispute about this — to say that the dual system has disappeared is simply not factual.

So far we see little evidence of the "attempt to deal with such serious matters in so innovative a way" as Moynihan credits Mr. Nixon.

After this little talk, said Moynihan, turning to Shakespeare, "the rest is silence." We have a hunch that did he really think so highly of the Administration he just left, he'd still be in Washington, fighting it out.

New Red Offensive in Vietnam

The American estimate that the infiltration of North Vietnamese troops along the Ho Chi Minh trail is about 30 per cent higher than a year ago and the highest since just before the unexpected Tet offensive in 1968 brings up a lot of questions.

Since we cut off most of the bombing of North Vietnam itself, the raids have been aimed at the trail through Laos and later into Cambodia after the change of government there. Have the raids been practically ineffectual? Or at least are they worth the cost in cash and planes and men?

The Pentagon points out that due to our offensive into Cambodia last spring that the danger of a really successful attack in that area is remote. But the officials are beginning to couch their estimates in more doubtful terminology. The increased infiltration, it seems, "points to an attempt to launch an offensive" and "that most people seem to think an offensive in Cambodia is more likely" than one in South Vietnam now that the dry season has come.

Congress has now enjoined the White House from using any of the funds appropriated for military use in Indochina for the support of American ground troops in Cambodia, Laos or Thailand. But will this action stand up if the Lon Nol government, so far remarkably resistant, is overrun?

It begins to appear that the Pentagon estimates, however accurate they may or may not be, may also be aimed at preparing the American people for a new Communist offensive in Indochina. But what the White House has not announced is what action it plans to take in such an event. Will we continue to withdraw American ground troops regardless of how able or unable our "allies" are to take over a successful holding action, if nothing more?

Lessons From the TFX Fiasco

It took eight years by a Senate subcommittee to study the whole story of the ill-fated TFX fighter plane, later named the F-111 — and come to the conclusion that the whole thing was a pretty bad and expensive mistake. Most anyone looking at the evidence would have come to the same conclusion.

The TFX was conceived primarily by former Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara as an all-purpose fighter plane which could be adapted to the needs of both the Air Force and the Navy and therefore save money. Mr. McNamara was — and is — a heady economist. Very likely the original concept had a great deal of merit.

But what happened? In the first place the contract to build the TFX was awarded to General Dynamics although Boeing's design and estimate was more generally approved by military experts. The McClellan committee found that Mr. McNamara's assistant, then Deputy Defense Secretary Boswell Gilpatrick, was considerably involved — and Mr. Gilpatrick had been in top management of General Dynamics in earlier years. So, too, had then Secretary of the Navy Korth, although he had only been connected with a bank which served General Dynamics. It has not been charged by the committee but it must not be forgotten that former President Johnson also came from Texas and has extensive holdings there.

But whatever may have been faulty in the conception of the TFX and in the contract awarding, what went on from then seems to have been the fault of the military and insufficient controls from above. The original contract called for the expenditure of $3,400,000 per plane and that 1,726 would be constructed, adaptable to all the needs of the fighter plane. But the Navy discarded the whole thing because the plane could not land on carriers, a reasonable enough requirement. Then in Vietnam, there were mysterious crashes which apparently have not yet been understood or at least explained. And each plane cost $14 million rather than $3 million, something that can hardly be blamed completely upon the rising cost of living. The variations demanded by each branch of the service chalked up some of the extra cost. And somewhere in the whole dispute we cannot discount the antagonisms that existed between Secretary McNamara and many of the military leaders as well as the tremendous profits within some industries that were contemplated — and perhaps made.

The ties between military requirements and industrial needs cannot be denied. If the appropriations for the SST are turned down finally in this session of Congress — and we think they should be — the move will have an impact upon the Boeing Corporation and the economy in Washington State. Mr. Nixon campaigned in 1968 in Texas in favor of the TFX. There may be some suspicion that even the development and deployment of the ABM and the MIRV have economic as well as military considerations in Washington.

But there must be a better way of bolstering the economy than spending billions of dollars on military equipment that is faulty or that we do not need. In the long run the nation needs better welfare programs, more extensive anti-pollution measures including sewage treatment plants, educational opportunities that can reach all American children. In its stress upon military hardware and the SST the government is in effect subsidizing certain industries — primarily those in airline industries — at the expense of others such as paper mills. Does it all still depend upon who has the most arm twisting power?

Phillips Writes

Muskie Believer in Politics Of Personality; He's un-Nixon

BY KEVIN P. PHILLIPS

WASHINGTON — Looking towards 1972, White House strategists are already doing research on Maine Senator Edmund Muskie. What kind of political animal is he? How does he pitch his campaign? To what groups?

A lot of the answers can be found in Maine, where Muskie has won five statewide elections since 1954. He is the first Democrat since the Civil War to become Maine's leading political figure, and he is very much a product of that success.

When Edmund Muskie ran for Governor of Maine in 1954, without much expectation of winning, the state was overwhelmingly Republican. To Maine's dominant Protestant respectability, Democrats were synonymous with Catholic ward politicians from the French-Canadian, Irish, and Polish industrial areas.

But if this stereotype had hurt most Democrats, it was the making of Edmund Muskie. Why? Because even though Edmund Muskie was the son of an immigrant Polish tailor named Marciszewski, no other Catholic Democratic politician in (circa) 1954 Maine was so Yankee-like in dry, reserved style and lean, lanky appearance.

Looks Like Saltonstall Muskie became aware of this early. He now says of a prominent New York law firm that offered him a job upon graduation from Cornell Law School in 1939: "I've always had a hunch that what impressed them was that I looked like Leverett Saltonstall."

Others saw it too. During Muskie's first term as Governor, newspapers like the Wall Street Journal were already comparing his manner and appearance to that of Saltonstall, the leathery, Yankee Republican Senator from Massachusetts.

Nowadays, the Senator prefers to be likened to Abraham Lincoln. A November study in the New York Times magazine observed that "in recent years, magazine pieces have apparently not been allowed to go to press unless they contain the adjective 'Lincolnesque' to describe Muskie, who is six feet, four inches and has craggy features." The Times also noted that the Senator disliked references to the poverty of his youth.

As might be expected, the image Muskie has courted in Maine is a personal one of calm, unhurried moderation. He does not campaign on ideology or on behalf of underdogs or to alleviate the conditions of Maine's grubby (largely Catholic) mill towns. This is good politics, of course — the mill towns are solidly Democratic already — but it is also a reflection of Muskie's basic nature.

To be sure, Muskie wins lopsided majorities in the Catholic mill towns. However, other Democrats do as well or better. In the industrial cities of Oxford County, where Muskie grew up and where his mother and sisters still live, his support slipped considerably in the last election and he trailed Democratic Congressman William Hathaway, a Harvard-educated Yankee.

Sees Edge Over Nixon

The nature of his Maine success has made Senator Muskie a true believer in the politics of personality, especially his own. Earlier this year, he said that "elections are decided on personalities, not issues." And he implied that personality would give him the edge over Richard Nixon in 1972.

Historically, personality does not play so much of a role in Presidential elections as it does at the state and local levels. Still, Muskie may be right as regards 1972. President Nixon's somewhat devious manner and harsh 1970 campaign techniques have resurrected his image as "Tricky Dick," the chronic campaigner and perpetual politician. Many Americans have soured on Mr. Nixon and are looking for a reassuring, non-divisive leader — an un-Nixon — and that sort of politics is Senator Muskie's stock in trade.

If prevailing circumstances continue, Muskie's un-Nixon image could be the making of the President, 1972. The Maine Senator could be expected to make a successful bid for many of the moderate suburban Republican and independent voters who are unhappy with President Nixon and Vice President Agnew.

Yet there is also a weakness inherent in Senator Muskie's style and appeal. Because of his Maine experience, the alternative he offers is essentially personal, with only minimal emphasis on ideology or programs. If President Nixon restores both the economy and his leadership credibility, then what does Edmund Muskie have to offer that goes beyond a Lincolnesque image and a bedside manner?

Looking Backward

Menasha Masonic Installation

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Post for Dec. 23, 1870.

Last Tuesday evening, in company with some of our Appleton friends, we had the pleasure of visiting our neighboring village, Menasha, to witness the installation of the officers-elect of the Island City Chapter of the Order of Free Masons.

The exercises took place at the new National Hotel in that village. The names of the officers that were duly installed on the occasion are as follows: Joseph Keyes, H. P.; A. Billstein, Mr. Brooks, J. W. Ladd, Mr. Robinson, Mr. Ward, Mr. Harbeck, Mr. Hall, P. V. Lawson, and D. J. Ryan, secretary.

The installation was conducted by the Hon. George Hyer, of Oshkosh, who introduced the exercises by a few appropriate and timely remarks. The appearance of the officers, clothed in the robes of their respective positions, and the manner of procedure, commanded the closest attention of the audience assembled to witness the ceremonies.

The installation of Mr. Joseph Keyes, an aged gentleman, and a veteran of the craft, produced a deep impression on the audience as he took upon himself the duties of the responsible position of High Priest of the Chapter.

25 YEARS AGO

Wednesday, Dec. 26, 1945.
A snowy owl, weighing 5 pounds and with a 5-foot wingspread, was caught alive in the silo on the Alvin Rehmer farm, route 2, Black Creek. Edward Jochman, route 1, Black Creek, captured the "Nyctea Nyctea," the white-plumaged owl that breeds in the farm north but travels south for the winter.

Roosevelt Junior High students celebrated the opening of their Christmas recess with a dramatic presentation of "The Birds' Christmas Carol." Taking part in the Dickens play were Barbara Zierke, Ruth Clary, David McIntyre, Michael Hammond, Dane Clary, Gloria Gross, Beverly Buch-man, Joyce Glassnap and Jacqueline Sorenson. Bob Temple and Melvin Delrow were members of the lighting crew.

Wednesday, Dec. 23, 1960.
Against the background of Christmas colors, six young women were introduced to the membership of Butte des Morts Golf Club at the traditional Coronet Ball. The young women were Miss Susan Fay Jenkins, Miss Penny Eisele, both of Appleton; Miss Jane Ann Hauser, Neenah; Miss Karen Lorraine Holtz, Shore Acres, route 1, Menasha; Miss Lynn Pechman, Kaukauna, and Miss Patricia Remick, Menasha.

Members in charge of the social holiday event were Mrs. Raymond LeVee, Mrs. John Goehler and Mrs. Frank Jenkins. Presented by their fathers, the young women were crowned by the Club president, Robert Martin.

Wisconsin Report

Referendum Likely On Voting Age; How Would It Come Out?

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Whatever the legislature and the people of Wisconsin may prefer, the state will probably conclude that the United States Supreme Court mandate that young people between the ages of 18 and 21 years have the right to vote in elections for United States government officials forces the extension of the voting privilege in state and local elections also.

Some legislators have talked about amending state laws to accept the judgment of the Supreme Court literally, thus separating national elections from the others and creating a special class of young voters that would be entitled to ballots in national election contests only.

But there are so many and such serious problems evident in such a proposal — aside from its inherent inconsistency — as to force the conclusion that it will be impracticable.

Many Hurdles Cited

Devising machinery for separation of voters under 21 years from their elders at the polling places will be inordinately expensive.

It will be fraught with danger in inaccurate counts. At the very least, it will slow the election process, not only in the recording of ballots but in tallies and reports. Registration process will be confused and difficult and vastly more expensive.

Because elections are conducted by localities, the financial penalties implicit in voter separation by ages will bring enormous pressure upon the state for a uniform voting eligibility rule.

There has been a curiously persistent misunderstanding about the rules for the modification of the franchise — apart from the pressure now applied by the U. S. court decision.

It is a simple matter — some of the confused and contradictory reports notwithstanding.

The State Constitution sets 21 years as the minimum age for the qualification of an elector. But it provides an easy and speedy method for the amendment of that rule for the extension of suffrage.

The legislature needs only to write an enactment and submit it for popular approval in a succeeding referendum in connection with a "general election." Whether a "general election" means only the fall elections, as the term has been construed in popular usage, or whether it may mean also a spring election is a technical point not entirely clear and may lead to a state court clarification.

Thus this state can, if it chooses, manage to accommodate the command of the U. S. court. It may not be able to do so before the elections for congressmen and president in the fall of 1972. But when the impact of the complications, risks and costs of separating the voters by age classes is understood, a state court would be strongly inclined to permit a referendum on the extension of the suffrage in the spring of that year, it is reasonable to suppose.

The legislature has shown more support for the idea of lowering the voting age. A more compelling question is whether the people would consent when the issue is handed to them on a referendum — in which only those inhabitants of the state 21 years and over would be eligible to vote.

Could Be Rejected

Popular rejection of the idea, which is perhaps as likely as acceptance, would pose a constitutional crisis of serious dimensions.

Meanwhile, the increasing probability of lowering the voting age in all elections will bring heavy pressure upon the new legislature for immediate removal of the spectre that frightens many residents and officials of the smaller college towns of the state — the possibility that nonresidents who happen to enroll in those institutions may use their voting rights to take over the control of the municipalities — including Whitewater, Platteville, Stevens Point, River Falls, Menomonie, and others.

They could pick mayors and aldermen, local boards of education and — this is the most disturbing possibility — they could control bond issues, municipal facilities construction and property tax rates.

Upon graduation or otherwise terminating their student roles, they could return to their true homes or migrate to new localities for employment, leaving the consequences of their political decisions to the townsfolk to manage. The legislature will hear much and soon about that peril, as some of the college town officials see it.

Strictly Personal

Whole Legal System Needs Scrutinizing

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

I was caught in the conversational cross-fire at dinner the other night, between a lady who was protesting against "police brutality" and a man who was defending the need for "law and order."

Both of these adversaries, it seemed to me, failed to put their arguments in a proper perspective. They were talking in a void, filling it with abstractions and sentiments that masqueraded as "philosophy."

In order to keep a sensible balance about this difficult subject, I think we first of all ought to understand where the U. S. stands on the spectrum of "police power" in terms of comparable nations; most Americans have no idea of what goes on in the rest of the world.

Let us take, as convenient examples, France and England, which rank with us among the great democratic powers of the West. If we compare ourselves with France, we have one scale for judging our police; if we compare ourselves with England, we have quite another.

The British police are courteous beyond belief; they are trained to respect the law in a way that American police are not; they have a long tradition of warning suspects about their civil rights; and they cannot even carry a gun without requesting a special permit to do so.

The French police, on the other hand, exercise quite extraordinary powers, even by our standards. They are more physically brutal than U. S. cops; they have more freedom in making arrests; they are less hampered by judicial processes; and they care far less about civil rights.

Yet both England and France have lower crime rates than the U. S. So, obviously, the high incidence of crime here has little to do with the severity or permissiveness of the police system — otherwise, we would expect France to have a significantly lower crime rate than England, which is not at all the case.

How America differs from both these countries is not in the toughness or softness of police procedures — it resides within the judicial system itself. In England, for instance, (contrary to popular belief) the average sentence is shorter than in the U. S. — but justice is swift, certain and impartial.

There is no alliance of politics and organized crime; no tentacles extending from the political headquarters to the bench; no connections, no fix, no clout; no interminable continuances and deals that let the influential crook off with a suspended sentence, while the petty crook goes up for a term that makes the prosecutor's record look good.

When we understand this, we will stop talking about the police, and start scrutinizing the whole legal system itself.

City Canine Population Problem Seen

Health Nuisance To Humans Growing, Researcher Claims

CHICAGO (AP) — Man's best friend is becoming a public health nuisance.

That's the conclusion of a Baltimore researcher who has been studying the habits of Old Rover and his canine pals.

The researcher, Alan M. Beck, prepared a report on his findings for today's program at the annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Beck, a graduate student in the Johns Hopkins University school of hygiene and public health, elaborated on his study in an interview, in which he pointed out that the dog population in the United States is growing faster than the human population.

"Dogs may become a major public health problem," he said. "Cities cannot maintain life at this ratio."

Dog Bites

It is estimated, Beck said, that there are 611,000 dog bites a year in the United States. While the danger of rabies in this country is not great at present, the bites are painful and children particularly can be badly hurt, he said.

As American cities spread, the danger of rabies increases, Beck said, because foxes and other animals which carry the disease live in the nearby wooded areas.

Beck estimated the dog population in Baltimore alone at 80,000 to 100,000, and said that at best only about 40 per cent of them have been vaccinated.

Recent Attacks

There have been three recent attacks by packs of dogs in the Baltimore area, he said. In one, 49 animals were killed in the zoo and the two others involved serious injury to young children.

Pets—not just strays—were involved in these attacks, Beck said.

One reason for the dog problem, he said, is that many people move to the city and buy attack-trained dogs for protection. Later they move and abandon the dog, he said.

Other dogs become free by escaping their owners, and loose dogs also produce offspring which grow up ownerless.

Besides the obvious danger of dog bite, the animals pose such other problems for city dwellers as barking at night and the pollution of streets and lawns, Beck said.

While dogs have been touted as enemies of rats, they often perform a friendly service for the vicious rodents, Beck said—rats feed from garbage cans which dogs have tipped over.

Zanuck's Son Resigns as Fox President

NEW YORK (AP) — The father-son team that ran Twentieth Century Fox for the past eight years has broken up with the resignation of Richard D. Zanuck as president of the film studio his father, Darryl F. Zanuck, put together in 1935.

The younger Zanuck, president since August 1969, flew here from California to submit his resignation Tuesday at a board of director's meeting. His father will continue as chairman of the board and chief executive officer.

The 36-year-old Richard Zanuck had come under criticism from some directors and bank lenders who felt he has not made enough profitable motion pictures since taking charge of production at the studio in 1962.

His resignation, which is effective Thursday, follows two years of deep losses at Fox.

Losses Cut

Last year the company reported a net loss of $25.2 million. And while Fox cut it losses by more than 50 per cent from a year earlier in the first nine months of 1970, it still wound up nearly $26 million in the red.

Much of the company's troubles, according to industry observers, have stemmed from costly extravaganzas that failed to break even at the box office.

Among the film studio's box-office "bombs," these observers said, have been such heavily bankrolled pictures as "Hello Dolly," "Dr. Doolittle," "Star," and "The Only Game in Town." The man with over-all production responsibility for these films has been Richard Zanuck.

But Fox has also managed to produce some outstanding financial successes under young Zanuck. "Sound of Music" was the largest grossing film in the industry's history. Other box-office hit included "M-A-S-H," "Patton," "Valley of the Dolls," "Planet of the Apes," and "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid."

Agreed Under Pressure

FDA Demotion, Harassment Case Reopened

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government has agreed under pressure to reopen the case of a Food and Drug Administration scientist who was demoted and allegedly harassed after accusing superiors of burying adverse findings on food chemicals.

At the insistence of Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., Elliot L. Richardson, secretary of health, education and welfare, has agreed to investigate whether the FDA ignores advice of its own scientists and manipulates laboratory data to hide dangers of some food additives and pesticides.

Magnuson, chairman of the Senate appropriations subcommittee that oversees the HEW budget, demanded the probe in a Dec. 22 letter to Richardson.

Seriously Concerned

"For some time I have been seriously concerned that the judgments of scientists in the Food and Drug Administration might be disregarded even though the public health and welfare would dictate otherwise," Magnuson wrote.

He referred to two FDA pathologists whose charges of administrative mismanagement were disclosed by The Associated Press. The two recently accepted transfers to the new Environmental Protection Agency. One of the scientists, Dr. Howard L. Richardson—no relation to the HEW secretary—was replaced as the FDA's chief pathologist May 19 after unearthing a 1950 agency study on the safety of the artificial sweetener cyclamate.

The experiment showed the same cancer dangers that led to the government's ban on cyclamate 20 years later, Dr. Richardson said. This finding and others by FDA scientists have been manipulated or ignored by superiors for years, he said in an internal memorandum.

Another FDA pathologist, Dr. Kent J. Davis said in a second memorandum the agency buried adverse laboratory results

Bid to Return Cape Canaveral Name Killed by Committee

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill changing the name Cape Kennedy back to Cape Canaveral is dead for the moment, with Congress favoring the memory of the late president over what is said to be local sentiment at the Florida landmark.

The joint resolution authorizing the change died in the Senate Interior Committee and is finished, at least for the present session of Congress. Florida Republican Sen. Edward J. Gurney is expected to try again next year.

Space Center

"There seemed to be some general reluctance to pass the resolution because members thought many would interpret this as a slap at the Kennedys," a committee aide said.

Gurney and the other Florida senator, retiring Democrat Spessard Holland, introduced the bill in early 1969, saying the people of Florida wanted the change.

The late president's memory and leadership in space activities is preserved in the John F. Kennedy Space Center at the cape, the senators noted. The legislation would change the name given the land area—not the space center.

The president's brother, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has said the matter should be decided by the people of Florida. He did not appear or submit a statement for a one-day hearing on the resolution. All testimony was in favor of the change.

A report published in a Florida newspaper said Kennedy had asked key senators to kill the bill. The committee aide said this had not been done, to the best of his knowledge, and added, "It would seem to be below his dignity."

possible harassment of Dr. Richardson.

Richardson told Magnuson in a letter he was hired with the understanding he would do no personal laboratory work because of an allergy to a chemical called formalin.

Richardson maintained he was ordered into the laboratory in September by a superior and almost died from a hypertensive reaction to formalin.

The superior, DRK. Morris A. Weinberger, described the allegation as "absolute baloney."

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — Many of the nation's top government and military officials gathered here for the funeral today of Rep. L. Mendel Rivers, chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Afternoon services for the South Carolina Democrat were scheduled at the Grace Episcopal Church with burial in the Episcopal Church cemetery 40 miles away at St. Stephen, in the South Carolina low country where he was born 65 years ago.

Rivers died Monday in Birmingham, Ala., 17 days after he underwent surgery to replace a faulty heart valve with one made of plastic.

Thousands filed through the church Tuesday after the casket had been placed in the nave.

Rivers had been a member of Congress for 30 years. He was elected to his 16th term, without opposition, in November.

Uncirculated Silver Dollars Expected to be Put on Sale

WASHINGTON (AP) — A rider on a bank regulatory bill could spur a silver dollar rush by collectors for at least $90 million in uncirculated cartwheels.

Charges for Medicare Will Be Increased

WASHINGTON (AP) — The aged must pay 6 per cent more for supplemental medicare benefits next July 1 largely because of rising doctor charges, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare announced today.

The current $5.30 a month premium will increase to $5.60 a month for the 19.5 million medicare subscribers. This is far less than the $1.30, or 32 per cent, increase announced last December for the current fiscal year.

Most of the latest increase was attributed to the expected 6.7 per cent jump in the amount of doctors' fees covered by medicare and to an estimated 2 per cent rise in the use of physicians' services.

HEW said an estimated 15 per cent increase in the cost and utilization of such institutional services as hospital outpatient clinics will account for the remainder of the premium rise.

Supplemental medicare meets parts of the elderly's nonhospital medical expenses. The government, which matches individual contributions, will pay out an additional $70 million from general revenues next year because of the premium increase.

HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson said improved cost-control measures this year have held outlays below estimates for the first time for the four-year old supplemental program.

Physicians' charges have risen 7.1 per cent since last December compared to a 4.8 per cent increase in the over-all cost of living, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The medicare supplemental premium began at $3 a month in 1966, rising to $4 in 1968 and $5.30 last July.

The government, as an economy measure, is now paying physicians' bills on the basis of their 1968 charges. This rate base will increase next year to include current fee schedules.

About 2.8 million of these rate-date coins left in U.S. vaults since they emerged from the Carson City, Nev., mint in the 19th Century—would be sold under a plan approved by the Coinage Commission in May 1969.

Now, as part of one-bank holding company legislation on President Nixon's desk, Congress has authorized transfer of the silver dollars—some of them still in original mint bags—from the Treasury to the General Services Administration for auction. Proceeds from the public sale will go to the Treasury.

Comparative Value

Officials at GSA, who never have handled this big a coin sale, are reluctant to say how much they expect to make on the deal—but they note these silver dollars, minted from 1878 to 1891, are conservatively valued by coin experts at more than $90 million.

GSA official Louis Brooks said the agency will set up a task force to settle on arrangements for the sale and seek $2 million to $3 million from Congress to pay for processing the anticipated flood of orders.

There will be a listing of the 10 years represented in the Carson City group—from 1878 to 1885 inclusive, plus 1890 and 1891—and a designated price for each. Buyers would be permitted to have just one coin from each year—with no one getting more than 10 coins.

Highest Bidder

If there are more requests for a specific year than there are coins to go around, the dollars will go to the highest bidder.

"These coins have never been out of government hands," Brooks said in an interview, "and some of them have been moved around the country a lot since they were minted. But now they are waiting down there in the vaults of the Treasury."

"These are 90 per cent silver and very valuable. The base prices will be set in advance by the government and will bear some reasonable relation to market values—but there will be a device under which people who order could, in effect, bid a higher price," he added.

"There are 1,000 per bag and we've got about 3,000 bags of them—and this is a long-awaited last opportunity for coin collectors to dip into this final batch," he said.

The measure also authorizes a new dollar coin bearing a likeness of the late President Dwight D. Eisenhower on one side—with the other side having a design emblematic of the symbolic eagle of Apollo 11 landing on the moon.

The Most Exciting Headache News In Years!

Doctors' Tests In Treating Nervous Tension Headaches Now Made Public

Non-Narcotic Tablet (that needs no prescription)
Proves Just As Effective As The Expensive, Leading Pain-Relief Prescription Of Doctors.

If you're one of the many who get tense, nervous headaches, these latest tests by doctors should be of the greatest importance.

In recent medical tests doctors proved a famous tablet that needs no prescription gives the same complete headache relief as the expensive, leading prescription of doctors.

These doctors' tests proved, beyond a doubt, that Anacin is just as effective to relieve tension headaches, yet Anacin needs no prescription and is far more economical.

With Anacin, headache pain and its nervous tension vanish in minutes. Despite its strength, Anacin is not narcotic. You can take it without getting dizzy or an upset stomach.

Next time take powerful, fast-acting Anacin. Anacin Tablets give the same complete headache pain relief as the leading prescription product for which doctors wrote 21 million prescriptions last year.

Appeal Board to Air Request to Convert Home

KAUKAUNA — The board of appeals will meet at 4 p.m. Jan. 7 in the council chambers to consider the request of Joseph Wild to convert a single family residence into a 2-family residence.

Wild was refused a building permit by Building Inspector Harold Loeser as the building to be converted, at 216 Whitney St., is in a Class A residential zone which calls for single family residences.

The board of appeals will hear all interested citizens before making a determination on the permit request.

Director and ask for a copy of Publication 54, Tax Guide for U. S. Citizens Abroad.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Wednesday, Dec. 30, the 364th day of 1970. There is one day left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1853, the United States and Mexico signed the treaty for the Gadsden Purchase—an area of 45,000 square miles in what is now New Mexico and Arizona.

On this date:

In 1856, the English author, Rudyard Kipling, was born in Bombay, India.

In 1903, more than 500 persons perished in the Iroquois Theater fire in Chicago.

In 1911, a revolutionary provincial assembly in China elected Dr. Sun Yat-Sen the nation's first president.

In 1943, in the Pacific war, U.S. Marines captured the airfield at Cape Gloucester, New Britain.

In 1947, King Michael of Rumania agreed to abdicate, charging that he was being forced off the throne by Communists.

Ten years ago — Laos asked the United Nations for support against a report invasion by troops from Communist North Vietnam.

Five years ago—The new presidential assembly in the Philippines, Ferdinand Marcos, conferred in Manila with U.S. Vice President Hubert Humphrey.

One year ago — At the Vietnam peace talks in Paris, the United States gave the Communists a list of 1,406 missing persons in an attempt to learn their fate.

Bucks Play 76ers in Philadelphia

BY TV SCOUT

7-9 — Channel 11 — The Milwaukee Bucks, the holders of far-and-away the best won-lost record in the National Basketball Association, travel to Philadelphia to challenge the 76ers. The NBA's leading scorer, Lew Alcindor (33), and the loop's greatest playmaker, Oscar Robertson (1), are the Vanguard for the Bucks' attempt at an NBA title in only their third season. Strong help is available from Bob Dandridge (10), Jon McGlocklin (14), Greg Smith (4), Lucius Allen (7), Bob Boozer (20) and Gary Freeman (17), a rookie who is starting to come into his own. Top players for Philly are all-loop Billy Cunningham (32) and Hal Greer (15), who may soon become the sixth player to score more than 20,000 points in a career.

9-10 Channel 5 — Four-in-One: Rod Serling's Night Gallery has two excellent, spooky tales. The first one, "The House," adapted by Serling from an Andre Maurois story (and directed by actor John Astin) is a different ghost story: it takes place in the bright sunshine, in a cheerful house. Joanna Pettit is the young lady whose persistent dream comes true, Steve Franken is a psychiatrist and Paul Richards a real estate agent. The second story has Agnes Moorehead as a dying old woman, with Louis Hayward her bitter brother, waiting for her to die (and helping her achieve that end?) and Rachel Roberts and Grayson Hall her sisters, one passive and one active.

6:30-8 Channel 5 — "Hannah," on The Men From Shiloh, is a script tailored for the talent of young Lisa Gerritsen by her grandfather, writer True Boardman. Lisa, one of the best young actresses around today, plays a stubborn child traveling with her father to find her mother, the one who ran away with a gambler. They meet Trampas, who joins the search when her father becomes too ill to help.

7:30-8 Channel 2 — The Governor and J.J. disappears after this episode which has a situation reminiscent of "Never Too Late." The governor's mother (Linda Watkins) goes home to a son after an argument with her

New York Critics Pick Film 'Five Easy Pieces'

George C. Scott in Patton Role Named Best Actor; Glenda Jackson Top Actress

NEW YORK (AP) — "Five Easy Pieces," a restless young man's trip through middle America in search of his identity, has been chosen the best movie of 1970 by the New York film critics. Jack Nicholson stars in the movie.

The 22 newspaper, magazine and radio-television reviewers gave the winner a handy margin of victory on the second ballot Monday over Ingmar Bergman's "The Passion of Anna."

The 36th annual poll also chose Bob Rafelson, director of "Five Easy Pieces," as best director. He had a slim edge over Federico Fellini.

George C. Scott Best actor honors went to George C. Scott for his performance in the title role of "Patton." Glenda Jackson was chosen best actress for her performance in "Women in Love," the film version of D. H. Lawrence's novel.

Though she was passed over in favor of Miss Jackson in the new husband. Then it turns out — at least this is what the doctor is prepared to swear — that the nice old lady is pregnant.

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — Medical Center focuses on Geoffrey Duel (Pete Duel's younger brother) as a young Indian caught between the old ways and his yearning to become a doctor. It's a serious attempt to present the problems of the Indian, although you may feel that a supposedly educated man like the head of a special training program at the hospital, would be less prejudiced.

8-9 Channel 5 — Kraft Music Hall is very cool tonight with Hugh O'Brian hosting "Comedy On Ice." There are a lot of lavish production numbers with people like Barbara Cason, Desmond Scott, Guy Longpre and The Zelankas whizzing all over the place, but you'll probably get the most laughs from Lucien Meyer and his partner, a chimpanzee.

Outside Agencies May Pay for Operations

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am 16. When I was 7 I was severely burned by water over my chest and shoulders. The doctor said I should have plastic surgery but my family was poor and had no hospital insurance.

Now I am older and would like to have plastic surgery, but we are still poor and my mother says we can't afford the operation. Is there any organization that could finance the operation? — C.M.

Laws and conditions vary from state to state, so I can't give you a simple, easy answer — but I suggest that you do some inquiring yourself.

After this length of time, the surgery would be an extensive procedure involving skin grafting, and probably would mean some study of your case before a decision could be made.

At your age you (or your mother) might well see whether Aid to Dependent Children can advise how you could be helped. Many states have crippled children's funds or funds for afflicted children and adults. A social service department at a hospital might be able to guide you. Anyway, check with some agencies of this sort and see if one of them can't guide you in the right direction in your particular community.

Chances are also that an opinion from a plastic surgeon, as to both the feasibility and necessity of such an operation, would be helpful, not to say necessary.

Because, as I said, local conditions can be so varied, I can't give you any specific answer — but I'm a great believer in asking questions when you find yourself in a puzzling situation. You may have to ask at several counseling agencies before you find a clue to the right answer.

Dear Dr. Thosteson. I have a hearing aid which is not very satisfactory. How satisfactory is ear surgery? I have been informed by some people who have had this operation that it is not very satisfactory. They claim that it may last two or three years, then they become totally deaf. I would like your opinion. — R.L.M.

When you speak of "this operation," you confuse matters, because there are different operations to restore hearing, depending on what is causing the deafness. There also are conditions (such as nerve dam-

The curvature is a matter of alignment of the bones in the spine, caused by polio, faulty posture, or disease of the vertebral bones. The brain is not affected.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is there a true, legitimate, effective aphrodisiac for use by couples, available with or without prescription, an aphrodisiac that is effective shortly after being taken? — G.J.S.

No. Despite the touted products that are supposed to work wonders, you can't suddenly buzz up sexual interest or vigor with a pill or potion.

Much heart trouble is preventable. Write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his booklet, "How To Take Care of Your Heart," enclosing a long self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

County Clerks Told to Delay Under-21 Voter Registration

MADISON (AP) — County clerks were advised Tuesday by the state to postpone voter registration for persons less than 21 years old until Wisconsin can iron out the status of suffrage for teen-agers.

The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that persons 18 years old are eligible to vote in presidential and congressional elections. Most states, including Wisconsin, do not allow persons less than 21 to vote in state elections, however.

A legislative study committee flooded with questions from recommended 8-1 Tuesday that county clerks as to how they the Wisconsin legislature act as soon as possible on an age-lowering measure so that the new franchise for 18-year-old persons can be submitted to a voter referendum.

Meanwhile, Robert C. Zimmerman, secretary of state, said he is sending warnings to Wisconsin's 72 county clerks, urging them not to register persons less than 21 until the technicalities of the new voting franchise is cleared up.

Zimmerman said he has been flooded with questions from county clerks as to how they should handle registrations from the newly franchised. But state statutes don't yet accommodate the new registrants, despite the Supreme Court ruling.

Zimmerman said the state attorney general is reviewing the conflict's application to Wisconsin law.

An assistant attorney general, John Murphy, said solving the conflict is a job for the legislature because the court's ruling didn't provide adequate guidelines.

The proposed legislation for reducing the voting age minimum at the state level was endorsed by the Age of Majority Committee, and was forwarded to the Legislative Council.

If all goes well, an age-lowering referendum would be submitted to voters in the next general election, scheduled for November, 1971, which is too late for Wisconsin to avoid having to handle dual ballots in 1972 for the separate federal and state voting ages.

The committee rejected a time-consuming alternative under which the state Constitution's age limit would be amended. Statutes wouldn't allow that course of action to

Rogers Wants Quick Action

KAUKAUNA (AP) — State Rep. William J. Rogers, D-Kaukauna, reported today he has requested that the 1969 legislature, winding up its session Monday, act on lowering Wisconsin's voting age.

Rogers said he has suggested the move to Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich, R-Appleton.

Rogers said that consideration of first passage of a resolution to amend the constitution to lower the voting age could open the way for similar action by the new legislature.

He suggested that the 1969 legislature go into special session a few hours prior to its final adjournment.

reach a referendum status prior to April, 1973.

The bill which would hold the referendum in 1972 is being offered on the basis of legislators' arguments that laws allow the legislature and a referendum to lower the vote age without a direct amendment.

Another problem facing local election officials especially college towns, is the approaching impact of a new bloc of voters at the college-age level.

The committee suggested the legislature enact special voter registration rules which would prohibit transient and students from qualifying as local voters unless they show they intend to reside permanently in the community.

The prospective voter would have to prove such intent by changing his address on his driver's license, motor vehicle registration or state income tax return.

Voter registration officials would have the authority to challenge a voting registration. The committee also suggested a measure to prohibit a person less than 21 from holding public office. That could require a Constitutional amendment.

Warren Warns Against Firms

Family Researchers From Out-of-State May be Fraudulent

Atty. Gen Robert W. Warren today advised Wisconsin residents to exercise caution when solicited by out-of-state research firms advertising family histories and coats of arms.

Warren told consumers to be especially careful if approached by firms offering them a report on their family's name and an artist's reproduction of their coat of arms. Firms engaged in this type of operation typically inform the client that the information about his particular family was discovered while research was being conducted for a friend, who, coincidentally, just happened to have the same last name, according to Warren.

The service is usually offered at a very minimal cost, but the attorney general stated that the report and coat of arms are sometimes not delivered as promised after payment has been made.

Any complaints concerning this should be directed to the Office of Consumer Protection, State Capitol, Madison.

Snowmobiler Is Injured After Spill Into Quarry

FREEDOM — A young Seymour snowmobiler was injured late Tuesday night when his machine plunged into a 30-foot rock pit about four miles south-west of here.

Dewayne Korth, 22, route 1, was listed as satisfactory this morning at Appleton Memorial Hospital where he was taken by Larry's ambulance. He sustained at least facial cuts.

Hospital authorities are awaiting results to determine other possible injuries.

Outagamie County police said the accident occurred at the Murphy Quarry Pit and that the snowmobile had been going northeast before it took the plunge.

State Veterinary Proposal

Pets: Worth $3 Million a Year?

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The family dog may be loyal, and the cat lovable, but is their health and the well-being of their progeny worth the investment of nearly $3 million a year in state funds?

The state Coordinating Council for Higher Education must answer that basic question, before making a recommendation to the legislature on the need, or lack of need, for a school of veterinary medicine in the state.

The council was charged by the 1969 legislature with determining the need for an educational program to prepare veterinarians. If the need is apparent, the CCHE is expected to recommend that the school be established in conjunction with the UW-Madison School of Veterinary Science research degree program offering master's and doctorate degrees or with the WSU-River Falls animal science bachelor's degree program.

A study on the subject recently presented to the CCH's program committee will be considered, with a recommendation expected at the Jan. 28 meeting of the full board. It was prepared by consultant Thomas H. Moran, former executive director of the Higher Educational Aids Board, and former fiscal analyst in the state Department of Administration.

Student Demand
Moran's research into the need for veterinarians now and for the next 15 years, the demand by students for a program in veterinary medicine, costs of a school and several alternative solutions did not lead to an automatic conclusion that the state needs its own school.

Basically, Moran found that Wisconsin presently attracts an adequate number of veterinarians to meet its needs on the basis of statistical averages and standards for the nation as a whole.

The state has a higher than average ratio of large animal doctors per 1,000 head of livestock at a time when the livestock population is dwindling, and a higher than average ratio of veterinarians to the human population in the state — 14 per 100,000 humans.

On the other hand, Wisconsin is deficient in small animal specialists, with only 15 per cent of the presently active 575 vets concentrated in that area of practice, compared to a national average of 24 per cent.

In addition, only 8.5 per cent of the state's animal doctors have mixed practices, devoting at least part of their time to small animals, while the national average is 35.2 per cent.

23 Per Year
Moran's conclusion was that Wisconsin currently attracts an average of 23 new veterinarians per year, a number adequate to maintain the state ratio of veterinarians to population through 1985.

With the increasing number of graduates from the present 18 schools of veterinary medicine in the nation, and two additional schools planned, the state can possibly expect, he said, to attract sufficient numbers to meet the projected future national average of 17.5 veterinarians per 100,000 persons, as well.

The only deficiency he found was in the area of small animal practice that would require the attraction to Wisconsin of specialists in that field or the switch of large animal doctors to small animal practice.

Analyzing the student demand for veterinary medicine programs, Moran found that an average of 21 Wisconsin young people each year enroll in such programs in other states, choosing Minnesota, Iowa and Michigan schools most frequently in the past 10 years. Smaller numbers chose Illinois and Kansas programs.

Opportunities Increase

While the number of applicants and opportunities for veterinary medical education are increasing nationwide, Moran found that these facts do not adequately benefit Wisconsin residents and residents of the other 32 states without veterinary medicine schools.

He found that high out-of-state tuition costs, higher admission standards for out-of-state students and quotas on non-resident students place a burden on persons from states such as Wisconsin planning to become veterinarians.

The current Tuition Reimbursement Program in Wisconsin which provides up to $500 for students seeking professional education in areas in which state schools do not offer programs, does not adequately offset the difference between the cost of attending a state school and the cost of non-resident tuition at an out-of-state school, Moran found.

An alternative to the program, he said, would be signing interstate compacts with states that offer veterinary medicine. He recommends compacts to provide that Wisconsin students pay tuition equal to that paid by in-state students, that they be given equal consideration for admission on the same standards as resident students and that the quota be set high enough to permit all interested and qualified students to enroll.

Cost of Compact
The former fiscal analyst estimated that the program would cost about $12 million a year once it became fully operational. He estimated that it would include 60 new students each year, at a cost of about $5,100 per student with support continuing for each student for four years.

A compact would involve two major drawbacks. First, he said, it would discourage states not invited to participate to be even more strict in applying higher admission standards or lower quotas to Wisconsin students.

Second, it would pay full support for all the state's prospective vets, without regard to their own willingness to pay in the absence of subsidy.

The final alternative Moran considered, and clearly the most ambitious and expensive, is the establishment of a Wisconsin School of Veterinary medicine. That is the alternative the CCHE is specifically concerned with, although it could accept an alternative if it decides the need does not warrant the expense.

Although Moran provided the facts and figures necessary to consider the establishment of a school, he warned that having its own school would not provide any guarantee that Wisconsin's veterinary manpower would increase. Student mobility is too great, he said, to make that assumption.

Annual Costs
Preliminary estimates of the cost of a state school include construction of a facility, debt service and annual operating budget.

The buildings would cost about $15.3 million at 1970 prices or perhaps $18.7 million by 1973, the earliest they could be built according to Moran's estimate. Federal assistance for construction is unlikely, he says, because of a $500 million backlog of projects approved, but not yet funded.

The annual operating budget would be about $3.1 million for a school with about 350 students and 98 faculty members. About $1.8 million in state funds would be needed, with the rest coming from federal and other non-state sources. Debt service for the building would add about $1.1 million a year to the costs, bringing the annual cost to the state to about $2.9 million.

During the next few weeks the CCHE staff will evaluate Moran's report and solicit reactions to it from interested persons and agencies.

If the full council endorses the planning of a school it will then move into phase two of the project, planning a curriculum and determining more specific costs with the assistance of the American Veterinary Medical Association. A recommendation with a fiscal note would then be presented to the legislature, probably about March 1.

IF, on the other hand, the CCHE finds that the state's animals are not worth an expenditure of $3 million a year, it will either consider the other alternatives proposed by Moran or simply tell the legislature that there is not adequate need for a school of veterinary medicine.

Youth Vote OK Unofficial

MADISON (AP) — The vote wasn't official because it lacked a quorum, but members of a Legislative Council committee voted 7-1 Tuesday to recommend legislation lowering the minimum voting age in Wisconsin from 21 to 18.

Sen. Milo Knutson, R-La Crosse, cast the dissenting vote.

If approved by the full council and the legislature, the matter would be submitted to Wisconsin voters in a referendum in November, 1972.

UW Math Research Center Moved to New Location

MADISON (AP) — A Math Research Center, target of the Aug. 24 bombing of Sterling Hall, will be temporarily relocated in the new University of Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation Building.

Forrest Todd, UW director of space management, said Tuesday that moving would be completed by Jan. 22.

The $5.9 million building will also house 10 other university units.

Largely funded by the Defense Department, the research center was formerly known as the U.S. Army Math Research Center. The name was changed last summer.

The center's offices have been scattered about the campus since the bombing. Repair of Sterling Hall is expected to be completed toward the end of next year, Todd said.

Other units, which begin moving Jan. 7, include the planning and construction department, part of the rural sociology department and an arm of the industry research department.

Also sharing the new quarters will be three units of the medical center, the environmental design department, the data processing division, the education administration and the space management unit.

Independent Schools to Push for Liberalized State Tuition Grants

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Private colleges and universities of Wisconsin are preparing a vigorous drive in the new Wisconsin legislative session for a liberalization of the pioneering program of state tuition grants for young men and women enrolling in non-public institutions of higher education that has been adopted by at least 10 other states since its enactment five years ago.

About a fifth of the 26,500 students enrolled in those schools are now receiving the state grants to allow them freedom of choice of colleges and universities. The institutions have the capacity to serve considerably more young people, Dr. Robert DeZonia of the Association of Independent Colleges and Universities told Gov.-Elect Patrick J. Lucey during a public hearing on the financing of higher education in this state.

The association has the backing of the state Higher Educational Aids Board, central administrative authority for a variety of state and federal student subsidies, in extending family eligibility rules that govern the private school tuition payment program.

Grants Limited
Under present law, the individual grants to students are limited to $600 yearly, and governed according to the financial ability of the beneficiary's family.

The association plan, like the HEAB budget proposal formally filed with the new state administration, would raise the maximum tuition grant to $900, which is calculated to be near the cost to the taxpayers of Wisconsin of the instruction of an undergraduate at one of the tax-supported state universities.

The request also urges an expansion of the family eligibility rules, to permit students who are members of families with an effective income of up to $12,000 to become eligible for the public assistance. The cut-off line under the existing law is $10,000, with allowances made for numbers of dependents in a family, emergency expenditures and other factors resembling the definition of net taxable income under the state income tax laws.

Obstacles Severe
DeZonia testified that the financial obstacles confronting young men and women who prefer a private college education are growing more severe. Since 1965 the financing required for such a student in a private school has advanced by 50 per cent, he said.

Because the schools use some of their receipts for student financial assistance to maintain opportunities for the less affluent, some of their students through their tuition payments are actually subsidizing the education of others in less fortunate circumstances, he asserted.

At stake in the problem is the "democratization of educational opportunity and the maintenance of educational diversity through freedom of choice," the association officer argued.

"Student populations in our schools are becoming more and more representative of the upper and lower income strata, both being able to obtain financial support more readily than students from families of moderate or middle income status," the association spokesman said as he launched a campaign in preparation for the convening of a new legislature.

Hospital Wing Is Completed At Kaukauna

KAUKAUNA — Work on the $525,000 addition to the Kaukauna Community Hospital has been completed. Dedication of the addition and open house will be held early in 1971, according to Administrator Roger Anderson.

The 84 by 82-foot addition is the third such project since the hospital opened. The new wing includes expanded therapy facilities, administrative and general office space, a basement storage area, nine patient rooms and a large solarium. The addition permitted enlarging the food preparation area, added space in the employee-patient lounge and lunch room and increased the medical record storage area.

As part of the construction, additional air conditioning and ventilation systems have been installed in the operating room. The new wing is also air conditioned.

Charged With Burglaries Two Appleton Men Sent to Reformatory

Reformatory terms were imposed Tuesday on the last two of three Appleton men who over the past three years took approximately $10,000 in cash and merchandise during crimes in Outagamie County and three other Wisconsin counties.

Outagamie County Judge Nick P. Schaefer sentenced Ronald Kelly, 22, 303 E. South River St., to two years in the Green Bay reformatory on 12 felonies, including burglary and theft, on 10 of them. Kelly was sentenced to one year for seven burglaries and a felony theft. The pair pleaded guilty to the store in the City of Fond du Lac, where an acetylene and oxygen tank, and hoses for them were stolen after the store was broken into.

Safe Cracking Attempt
Appleton detectives said these materials were the same used by the trio, acting singly and together, were responsible for offenses here, at W. T. Grant on Nov. 7 and in Calumet, Fond du Lac and Winnebago counties since broke into Kuehl's Food Co. in January of 1968. The trio was arrested the night of Dec. 9, capping a joint investigation by Outagamie and Appleton authorities. Area burglaries, besides the Country Aire, occurred at the R. Sabee Co., 1718 W. Eighth St.; W. T. Grant, 800 W. the vandalism.

Authorities said that some of the stolen property has been recovered. Damage to areas of the places broken into constituted some of the total loss, the authorities said, but they were unable to furnish a figure for Next spring The Aces will be joined by another strong American team in Taipei, Taiwan, in competing for the 1971 world championship.

The team of Lew Mathe, Don Krauss, Richard Walsh and John Swanson, all of Los Angeles, in a play off match to determine the second North American team, defeated by the close margin of 12 international match points an East Coast team of Ira Rubin of Paramus, N. J., and Phil Feldesman, Jeff Westheimer and Bill Grieve, all of New York City.

The Los Angeles team chose Edgar Kaplan of New York and Norman Kay, Philadelphia, to join them as fifth and sixth members. The Aces, defending their title, are happy to join with the Mathe team as a double North American entry to keep the Bermuda Bowl in the United States.

The playoff winners triumphed in spite of a large loss on a slam hand on the final day's play. Cover the South and West cards with your thumbs and place yourself in the East position.

Opening lead: Four of hearts.

Playing North and South were Westheimer and Rubin; defending East and West were Krauss and Mathe. The bidding was standard.

Mathe, as West, chose the opening lead of the heart four. Declarer (Rubin) played low from dummy, Krauss (East) won the king and declarer followed with the 10. In Krauss' position, what would you have played at trick two?

Consider Krauss' problems. Krauss was positive that Rubin had all the outstanding clubs and he felt sure Rubin had four diamonds. Two possibilities plagued Krauss. If Rubin held x, Q-x, A-K-x-x, A-Q-10-x-x it was mandatory for Krauss to cash the ace of spades at trick two. Otherwise, Rubin would discard his spade loser on the heart ace and then finesse in trumps for his slam.

If Rubin held —, Q-10-2, A-x-x, A-Q-10-x-x, then the play of the spade ace at trick two would be the only way to allow Rubin to score his slam.

If you tried to cash the spade ace at trick two, you lost the slam. If you exited with any other card, take a bow.

East tried the spade ace at trick two and was sorry. Rubin ruffed the spade ace, crossed to the heart ace and discarded all three of his losing diamonds on the K-Q-J of spades. The trump finesse was taken and the slam was scored.

Note that any return other than the spade ace would have defeated the slam. An unlucky choice for Krauss. However, his team's final victory helped soften the blow.

Your Problems Bad Advice Brings Apology From Ann

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'll bet every farmer in the United States and Canada is mad at you. Your advice to "Williston, N.D.," whose dad drowned the five kittens was really bad. You told the sad young girl that her daddy should have taken the kittens out in the country and given them to a farmer.

Do you have any idea how many cats and dogs are dumped on farmers every day because of city idiots like you? At one time we had 13 cats. Where did they come from? Urban apartment dwellers who drove out in their cars, opened the doors and turned the poor things loose. Cats are not self supporting, you know. They must be fed. Farmers have to buy their groceries in the supermarket just like city people. So please Ann Landers, don't perpetuate the myth that every farmer is glad to have "one more mouser." It isn't so. — A Cat-Astrophy No Matter How You Spell it

Dear Cat: I received hundreds of letters from farmers who expressed precisely the same point of view. Please accept the apologies of this City Idiot.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Several weeks ago you printed a letter from Dr. William Center of San Antonio, Tex. He described the value of breast self-examination and urged women to write for the American Cancer Society's free booklet on the subject.

Would you like to know what happened? Our lives have not been the same. The headquarters of the American Cancer Society in New York received nearly a quarter of a million requests. This meant added help, added shifts, a tremendous postage bill and joy unlimited. We are not complaining, Ann — we love it. Because of that column dozens (maybe hundreds) of lives will be saved.

We hope you will publish this letter of gratitude. And please, Ann, tell your readers who have not yet sent for the free booklet that they may obtain one by getting in touch with their local unit of the American Cancer Society. It is listed in the phone book. — Joseph Clark, Director of Press.

Dear Mr. Clark: Your letter made my day. Thanks for writing.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I am a 16-year-old girl with a problem I can't talk to anyone about. My older sister is 20 and not married. She lives about 100 miles from here.

Rosemary moved out of the house about a year ago to take a cashier's job in a restaurant. (My folks were against it.)

I have reason to believe that Rosemary has had a baby within the last month. She has always been overweight and could have been pregnant without showing anything. When I saw her eight weeks ago she was wearing a smock which she always wore to work, so I didn't think anything of it.

My question is, should I say something to my parents? I am almost positive my hunch is correct. Don't you think Mom and Dad have the right to know whether or not they are grandparents? Also I would like to know if I am an aunt. I will take your advice. It is usually right. — Undecided

Dear Un: Keep quiet. If your sister did give birth she obviously did not keep the child, so there is nothing to celebrate. Exposing her secret would serve no useful purpose. I repeat: Keep quiet.

Alcohol is no shortcut to social success. If you think you have to drink to be accepted by your friends, get the facts. Read "Booze and You — For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Population Meeting Speakers Named

GREEN BAY — Mrs. Harriet F. Pipel, a New York City attorney, and Mrs. Jean K. Hutchinson, Buffalo, N.Y., public relations director for the Planned Parenthood Center in Buffalo, N.Y., are among the seven guest speakers invited to the second annual population growth symposium being sponsored Jan. 8 and 9 by the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay (UWGB).

Mrs. Hutchinson's address, "Communicating Family Planning," will open the two-day session.

Mrs. Pipel is a senior partner in the law firm of Greenbaum, Wolff and Ernst and serves as a member of the board of directors and counsel to Planned Parenthood-World Population.

She also serves as counsel for the Sex Information and Education Council of the U.S., the Association for the Study of Abortion and Association for Voluntary Sterilization and is a member of the council of Population Planning Program.

Freedom of speech and press, birth control, abortion and the law are among the topics of concern in her numerous books and articles. Mrs. Pipel chose the topic, "The Law and Birth Control, Sterilization and Abortion" for her address Jan. 8.

Other symposium participants are Dr. James Crow, chairman of the departments of genetics and medical genetics at the University of Wisconsin, Madison; Dr. Hugh Davis, director of the Johns Hopkins University family planning clinic; Dr. Edward Pohlman, professor of psychology at the University of the Pacific, Stockton, Calif.; Dr. Walter Rogers, associate medical director of the international postpartum program of the Population Council.

The symposium on "Population Growth: Family Planning Programs," is open to the public. Proceedings will include presentations by individual guest speakers and open forum panel discussions.

Dr. Alexander Doberenz, assistant dean of the UWGB College of Human Biology, and Dr. Burwell Taylor, population dynamics concentration chairman, are co-chairmen of the symposium. Registration for the conference may be made by calling the UWGB College of Human Biology.

Pre-Natal Classes To Begin Monday

Pre-natal classes at St. Elizabeth Hospital will begin Monday and Thursday for expectant mothers. They will be held in the physical therapy department at 7:30 p.m. with Miss Barbara Gwinner, R.M., as instructor.

A small fee is being asked for the series of four classes. Husbands are invited to attend the first class which deals with labor and delivery. Expectant mothers may call St. Elizabeth Hospital, extension 226, to pre-register for classes.

New Yam Recipes for Brand New Year

If you haven't made a New Year's resolution to be more adventuresome in planning menus and preparing meals, then you'd better make one now.

Too many culinary delights are missed when you insist on cooking a particular food in a particular way during a particular season of the year.

Take yams, for instance. Candied Louisiana yams are everybody's favorite in the fall. But they will also be welcome during the winter months, if served in a casserole or skillet dish, sauteed or even candied in a new way.

Or how about a yam bake? The Louisiana yams available in January, February and March are particularly good bakers. They have been cured under just the right conditions to convert starch into sugar and they bake up soft, sweet and syrupy.

To make sure they will all be done at the same time, select yams of uniform size. Wash and dry them; place on a rack in the center of the oven and bake until soft. For a delicious but quick and easy vegetable accompaniment, serve with a seasoned butter.

Louisiana Yams with Maple Nutmeg Butter are especially good with chicken but will complement ham or pork as well. Chicken is an excellent choice right now because it's one of the best buys in Fox and Wolf Valley markets.

Baked, stuffed yams also are an unusual and attractive company dinner side dish. Cream Cheese and Chive Stuffed Yams are just one suggestion.

LOUISIANA YAMS WITH MAPLE NUTMEG BUTTER
6 medium Louisiana yams
1/2 cup butter, softened
3 tablespoons maple-blended syrup
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg

Bake yams in 400 degree oven 15 minutes; reduce to 375 degrees. Bake 45 minutes longer or until tender.

Meanwhile, blend butter, syrup and nutmeg. Serve with hot split yams.

CREAM CHEESE AND CHIVE STUFFED YAMS
4 medium Louisiana yams
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
3 tablespoons water
1 tablespoon fresh or freeze dried chives
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper

Bake yams in 400 degree oven 15 minutes; reduce heat to 375 degrees; bake 45 minutes longer or until tender. Cut slice off top of each yam. Scoop out yams leaving quarter-inch shells; reserve shells.

Mash yams; add remaining ingredients and beat until blended. Return to shells and bake at 375 degrees for 10 to 15 minutes. If desired, dot with additional butter.

Baked Louisiana yams are an easy-to-eat, easy-to-prepare, anytime vegetable treat. Here they are served with a maple nutmeg-butter sauce, and deliciously stuffed with creamed cheese; mashed yams and chives as a go-along with chicken.
